New Marin Airport Called Death Trap

By THERON A. NEWELL

The new Marin County Airport at Novato was described today as "a potential death trap" by the present manager and pilots who fly in and out of the airport.

The cause of the alarm at the $310,687 Federal Aviation Agency approved airport now under construction north of Novato, was two ditches which were planned to drain the runway.

These ditches run the full 2,200 feet length of the runway, going from about three feet deep on the south end to six feet deep at the north end. The runway is 60 feet wide and has 30 feet wide shoulders on each side. The ditches are beside these shoulders.

"There just isn't enough room on the runway and the shoulders for these small planes if they hit a side wind," said Harry Tollefson, present airport manager.

Tollefson explained that many of the fliers out of the Marin County airport are students and amateur pilots who often go off the runway.

"A side wind can put them 40 to 50 feet off the runway, and they would be in that deep ditch," he said.

Eugene Trombley, chairman of the Marin County Airport Commission for seven years and a former flier with the Air Force and now a private pilot, said that the ditches had to be grilled over or a pipe put in them and filled.

Martin Prescott, county assistant engineer in charge of the project, said, however, that there are no plans to cover the ditches.

Trombley said, "I've flown in and out of airports all over the world and I have never seen one with ditches close to runway."

A check with Hamilton Air Force Base and Buchanan Field, the Contra Costa County airport, shows that both have open ditches for drainage, but that they are much farther from the runways than Novatos 30 feet.

At Hamilton Air Force Base, the main runway is 40 feet wide and 11,000 feet long. This is drained by pipe into a ditch which is 12 feet below the runway level. The water is then pumped into the bay. Nowhere is this ditch closer than 600 feet from the runway, said Lt. Howell B. Simmons of the base engineers.

Buchanan Field at Concord has two 150 foot wide runways which are 5,000 and 4,600 feet long. These are drained into concrete pipe with these leading to catch basins. The closest that these catch basins are to the runway are 300 feet, according to Richard Epling, engineer with the design division of public works for Contra Costa County.

"It looks like a death trap to me," said Novato Councilman Harley McAskill who flies in and out of the Marin County airport. It's not uncommon for a gust of wind to blow a plane off the runway as happened one day recently, he said.

"If anyone is killed because of those ditches, the county will be sued for plenty," McAskill said.

Martin Prescott, Marin County assistant engineer in charge of the project, said that it was funny that this is just now coming to light.

"The plans went between the county office and the FAA five times and were approved by the Federal Aviation Agency," Prescott said.

Purpose of the large drainage ditches is to keep the water level below that of the runway

Orro Quits Human Rights Chief Post

By DAVID DIETZ

The abrupt resignation of Gene T. Orro, executive officer of the county human rights commission less than seven weeks, was disclosed last night.

County Administrator Alan Bruce made the announcement at a commission meeting in the Civic Center administration building. All members apparently had been informed in advance, however.

The loss of Orro, who had been highly regarded both by Bruce and commission members, threw the group into a staff dilemma, since its only other employee is a secretary.

A quick replacement for Orro — if the position will be filled at all — was ruled out.

From discussion by commissioners, it was clear that the resignations of Orro and his predecessor, Robert B. Brauer of Berkeley, were triggered by either an unyielding work load without staff aid or a conflict of authority with the county administration.

Brauer held the post, recently paying $914 monthly, for seven months.

Bruce said Orro came into his office and quit Wednesday. The administrator said he withheld an announcement pending a letter — still unreceived — from Orro.

As to the executive officer's myriad duties, the commission agreed with some reluctance to pass them to Bruce and his staff, pending thorough review of the job requirements. A special meeting on the matter was tentatively scheduled for next week.

Bruce indicated he would ask the supervisors to appoint a field representative for commission "leg work."

Commissioner Arthur Brown, joined by chairman James Quiett, blamed the brief terms of Orro and Braun on the staff shortage. Brauer had asked the board of supervisors' permission to hire a community liaison man this fiscal year, but was turned down on the recommendation of Bruce, who felt further program development took precedence.

When Commissioner Bella H. Aaron read a cumbersome description of the executive officer's duties, Bruce allowed: "That sounds like (the work of) 10 men. It is a difficult situation, as conceived, to put anyone in."

Commissioner Richard Harding observed that the executive officer "had three bosses — and that's two-and-a-half too many," referring to the supervisors, Bruce and the commission.

Later, Bruce ticked off

Rehabilitation Unit Closure In Works

By WAT TAKESHITA
and BRYCE W. ANDERSON

Complete overhaul of the Marin County Probation Department juvenile operation and shutdown of its Family Rehabilitation Center in Lucas Valley was called for today by the Bay Area Social Planning Council.

Chief Probation Officer Walter H. Busher disclosed that he intends to ask the county board of supervisors next Tuesday to "phase out" the Family Rehabiliation center by year's end.

The Bay Area Social Planning Council, which was asked by the Marin County Juvenile Justice Commission to make a study of the family rehabilitation center, went beyond that to propose that an 11-member committee be appointed "with the task of deciding on the future juvenile probation service in Marin County" to report to the board of supervisors not later than next Jan. 31.

MIDST OF PROBE

Its report came in the midst of a probe of the department and its family rehabilitation center by the county grand jury. An interim report by the investigating grand jury committee has been delayed as more and more instances of excessive permissiveness with young delinquents, lack of supervision, and other shortcomings have been discovered, according to jury foreman Clifford S. Lund.

The BASPC report declared: "Implementation of the concept of FRC has been wrong on two counts: the limitation on the individuals selected for the experiment, and the failure to set definite, instantly evident, incontrovertible limits on unacceptable behavior."

It recommended that no more juveniles be received at the center, and that "the last child be released from FRC by the end of 1967."

BUSHER REQUEST

Busher will concur in this in his request to the supervisors Tuesday, he indicated.

As to the probation department as a whole, the lengthy report of the BASPC study declared:

"It appears to the BASPC staff that most of the FRC's problems in administration, in-

Austerity Budget Due Again

SACRAMENTO (UPI)— Gov. Ronald Reagan says he will submit to the legislature in January another austerity budget, probably even tighter than the "strict economy" spending program for the current fiscal year.

The governor told a meeting of his cabinet yesterday that despite this year's controversial budget cuts, California finances are still "in deep trouble."

NOT OUT OF WOODS

"It would be very nice if after the lean, hard days we have been through, we could announce that we are out of the woods," Reagan said. "But it isn't true."

The Department of Finance is now conducting hearings in advance of preparation of the new budget. Reagan warned department heads to be prepared for some hard decisions.

The governor also vowed to control the rising costs of the Medi-Cal program which he said will increase 50 per cent a year unless corrective action is taken.

TRIVIAL AILMENTS

The governor said too many Medi-Cal patients are going to a physician with trivial ailments which should be taken care of at home with a bandage or a pill.

"We have created a group of people who have absolutely no

'BEST-LOOKING PRISON'

Author Capote Visits Quentin, Interviews Death Row Inmates

By BRUCE COLEMAN

Truman Capote added San Quentin Prison to his list of prisons visited today.

Standing in the visitor's room, looking out over a foggy, melancholy bay, he said: "The setting is quite extraordinary. It's the best-looking prison I have ever seen . . . and I have seen a lot."

The short, meek-mannered author of the best selling book, "In Cold Blood," is spending two days at San Quentin to make a 90-minute television documentary on capital punishment in America.

With him were his attorney, an associate and two cameramen from the sponsoring American Broadcasting Corp.

Capote said he plans to interview six condemned men of the 58 now on death row and about 11 former condemned men.

One of his problems, he continued, is that California, unlike any other state he has visited, will permit ABC to photograph condemned men but not tape-record their voices. It is, however, permissible to record voices of non-condemned men.

Asked if this would hurt the production, Capote replied, "No, I'll do it sort of verbatim and use a narrator underneath it." He added he is accustomed to memorizing prisoners' comments without use of machine.

Capote was to meet each prisoner behind barred doors in the condemned row visiting room.

The author said that, in addition to prisoners, he is interviewing penologists and many persons who favor capital punishment. The balance, he said, comes in talking to relatives of victims. The documentary is "neutral," he explained.

Yesterday the writer met with Gov. Ronald Reagan in Sacramento.

Is Reagan in favor of capital punishment?

"Is he ever!" Capote said. Asked Reagan's further views, the author remarked, "They (proponents) generally seek to find circumstances in clemency hearings. If they possibly can, they are ready to extend clemency."

Describing Reagan as "disarming," and saying he "liked him," Capote reported Reagan could give no reason for the ruling that death row prisoners could not be taped "except that the bureau of corrections has had a long-standing rule."

Prison officials say the reasons for the rule are that since inmate cases "keep going," they can hurt themselves by talking and, if the prison allows one company to record, it should be extended to every outfit and it could be a "macabre thing."

In visiting seven or eight prisons for the documentary, Capote has come to San Quentin from Colorado State Penitentiary and leaves Sunday for Oregon State Penitentiary.

The documentary, called "Death Row U.S.A." is being

No Proof Of Sloppy Work, Attorney Says

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District officials have not proved that a Negro painter, fired for alleged incompetency, was responsible for poor work discovered on the span.

This was asserted today before the state Fair Employment Practices Commission by Francis J. McTernan, attorney for Painters Union Local 4 and the fired painter, James B. Haugabook, 30, of Palo Alto.

McTernan hammered a day at testimony by Hale Sharrett, paint superintendent on the bridge, who insisted that Haugabook had done the work, on the bridge's southeast tower.

Haugabook and Jimmie Lee Wilkins, 33, of Oakland, were fired by bridge general manager James Adam in March for alleged poor work. The men said they were fired because they were Negroes, and brought their case to the FEPC, which has been holding hearings since Monday.

McTernan asked Sharrett, "Who else worked in that area?"

Sharrett conceded he did not check his records to see who worked there. "I only checked to see if a certain party worked there," added Sharrett, in a obvious reference to Haugabook.

Under McTernan's questioning, Sharrett said that he prepared records of work done each 30 days. He prepared a monthly performance record from daily notes.

McTernan asked him if he had any recent notes available. Sharrett said he would have to look in his office.

The hearing adjourned shortly after 10 a.m. today and commissioners and attorneys went to the brdige to inspect the alleged inferior work done by Haugabook.

Painting of the east leg of the south tower has been held for the hearing to show the work, it was revealed yesterday by George O. Bahrs, attorney for the bridge.

He said that, in the visit to see "good and bad painting," the commission would observe Haugabook's work but not that of Wilkins, since it was under the bridge's floor.

Three East Bay men testified yesterday that application of demikote, an inorganic zinc which is sprayed on steel portions of the bridge after sand blasting, was not up to standard

Fifth Day Of Strike

COMBINED AP & UPI

NEW YORK — The city's public school strike was in its fifth day today, with no formal negotiations scheduled and fewer and fewer of the 1.1 million pupils showing up for the makeshift classes.

The city Board of Education, which rejected a union bid for new talks, was back in court trying to have the union's top three officers jailed and the union itself fined.

Meanwhile it may be Thanksgiving before 300,000 Detroit children can go to school unless salary demands made by striking teachers are submitted to immediate arbitration, a fact-finder in the dispute said yesterday.

Ronald Haughton, assigned to study the issues in the Detroit dispute—one of 13 keeping 400,000 Michigan children out of school—said the present negotiations, without outside help, "could well drift into an 8 or 10 week stoppage unless drastic action is taken.

Strike Session

DETROIT (AP) — Negotiators for Ford Motor Co. and the United Auto Workers return to the bargaining table today with no indication that they can bring a quick end to the union's strike against Ford, now in its ninth day.

Ross Again To Ask Vote On Tax Rise

The Town of Ross, broke to the point of borrowing money, will go to the voters again Jan. 23 to seek a 50-cent boost in the general obligation tax rate.

The town has been in financial straits since last June when voters rejected a proposal to increase the rate from $1 to $1.50 per $100 assessed valuation.

Councilmen took no official action last night, but agreed on the 1968 date and the 50-cent boost, as recommended by Mayor Frederick S. Allen.

Councilmen agreed to call the second tax increase election after they announced their intention to seek a $50,000 loan from the Wells Fargo Bank, San Francisco, to carry them through the dry financial period before property tax revenues come in.

Early in the meeting they had to reject a request from 30 residents for a school crossing guard at Sir Francis Drake Boulevard and Bolinas Avenue, scene of a widening project, because they couldn't afford one.

Mayor Allen said the "loan doesn't mean we're increasing the budget. It has to be paid back. Just because we're borrowing doesn't mean we're spending more."

The mayor said that the town's checking account is overdrawn by $6,309. "Next month we'll be $16,000 in the hole, and it'll be $30,000 in November," he said.

Mayor Allen said he felt the election date, Jan. 23, the same as that for bond elections in Novato, would be favorable.

"This will give us time to campaign, and we hope to get the vote out."

He noted that the tax rate increase was defeated by only 20 voted in June, with a 50 per cent turnout. "We should get a 75 per cent turnout," he commented.

Councilmen frankly admitted that the town is broke when a few parents made a spirited appeal for a crossing guard.

Webster Otis of 52 Loma Linda Avenue described the crossing at Sir Francis Drake Boulevard and Bolinas Avenue, where there is presently no traffic signal, as a "potentially lethal situation."

Residents requested a crossing guard or a police officer on duty at school crossing hours until the traffic light is installed.

Councilman Roy Farrington Jones said the lack of a traffic signal "shouldn't last longer than six weeks," and Mayor Allen suggested that the parents man the crossing themselves or chip in and hire a crossing guard.

Reagan Challenged To Debate War

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan's call for an all-out American effort to win the Vietnam war has prompted a debate challenge from Assemblyman John L. Burton, D-San Francisco.

Burton, a "dove" on U.S. participation in the conflict, suggested the debate in a letter to Reagan yesterday. He said the Republican governor could choose the time and place.

"At a time when our urban centers are festering sores of frustration and despair for millions," Burton said, "It is irresponsible to ask that much-needed domestic reforms play a waiting game.

"I, for one, am more concerned with the future of San Francisco and the people living in San Francisco than I am with the future of the absentee landlords and military leaders of South Vietnam," he added.

Burton said Reagan cut $200 million from Medi-Cal, the state medical assistance program for the needy, within the last month but "sees nothing wrong with spending $30 to $35 billion a year to bring death and destruction to the Vietnamese people. It really leads one to question Reagan's sense of values."

Burton has hinted he may run for mayor of San Francisco. He lost to Republican Milton Marks in a special election last month for a San Francisco state Senate seat.

Open Housing Backers Plan Weekend Rally

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI)— Open housing militants demonstrated for the 18th successive night yesterday but stayed away from the city's "Mason-Dixon line," easing tempers on the near South Side where white rioting broke out the night before.

National Council of Churches representatives today were rallying to the open housing cause of Rev. James Groppi and planned to have a sizeable delegation on hand for the weekend. White counter-demonstrators said they were going to expand their efforts tonight.

ORDER KEPT

Riot-equipped police, walking 8 to 10 in a group and yelling through bullhorns at young whites to keep moving, kept order in a violence-scarred six-block area of south 16th street between National and Greenfield Avenues.

At least five persons were arrested Thursday. But there was no repeat of Wednesday night's battle between police and whites.

Mayor Henry Maier, who has seen his city wracked by a racial riot in the north Negro area and mob violence by whites on the South Side this summer, Thursday asked for an end to "hoodlum violence" and pleaded with "provocateurs" to stay home lest death and destruction result.

NO ACCIDENTS

"I don't care if you're white or Negro," Maier said. "I don't care if you support open housing or oppose it. If you care about our city, go home."

About 250 demonstrators of the Youth Council of the NAACP marched without incident last night on the predominantly Negro North Side and along downtown Wiscosnin Avenue, the city's main street.

Birth Control Funds To India

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States is going to give India $1.3 million for birth control pills and contraceptives, the first American aid grant ever made for that approach to population control.

Administrator William S. Gaud of the Agency for International Development (AID) disclosed yesterday the Indian program would have two phases:

"One project calls for enough birth control pills to supply 100,000 women participating in a test over a period of a year and a half . . .

"The second project is to supply 100 million condoms as the initial inventory in a large, continuing program of commercial distribution of condoms throughout India."

Gaud, discussing the program in a speech to members of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, said the pill project was intended to find out what was necessary to get that birth control method "widely and correctly used in India."

U.S. foreign aid grants for population control have heretofore been for research and educational programs and the like.

The Indian government is expected to continue the pill program, using locally produced pills, after completion of the U.S.-financed study.

Saigon Military Foe To Prison On Checks

SAIGON (AP) — The No. 2 man in South Vietnam's presidential race, Truong Dinh Dzu, was convicted today of writing a bad check five years ago and transferring money abroad illegally last year.

The Saigon criminal court sentenced him to three months in prison on the check charge and six months on the other and fined him $27,711. Te sentences are to be served concurrently, meaning a total of six months in prison.

Dzu, who was not in court for the trial, said the charges were false and he would appeal the conviction. He charged the military government was trying to get him because of his political opposition to it.

Dzu, a lawyer, was acquitted on a third charge that he collected a fee of 150,000 piasters—$1,270—from a Vietnamese client he had not defended.

Early this year he was the attorney for several Americans imprisoned on currency charges who accused him of trying to extort money from them, but no formal charges have been filed against him in that case.

Dzu ran second in the election to the military ticket made up of Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu and Premier Nguyen Cao Ky. He campaigned on charges against the government and a promise to seek peace.

Uncle Sam Is Giving Aides Lessons In Terse Writing

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government is teaching its employees how to write.

It's even got a machine to show them how not to be stuffy.

The campaign isn't likely to impress the public as much as a 10 per cent tax cut. And those on the receiving end of government utterings might say it hasn't helped much.

But the government—prodded by President Johnson—has been making a big effort for two years. Most agencies have some kind of writing campaign for their dealings with each other, the public and newsmen.

The Interstate Commerce Commission has its teaching machine, a step-by-step journey through the jungles of grammar and style. The course takes 6 to 12 hours.

The Department of the Interior has a 113-page, illustrated book considered so good that it's offered for sale to the public at 40 cents. The title: "Gobbledygook Has Gotta Go."

Gobbledygook—denfied by one dictionary as "wordy and generally unintelligible jargon" — hasn't gone by any means.

The Interstate Commerce Commission's teaching machine is a microfilm projector with a brain.

It will flash a sentence such as this: At 10 p.m. in the evening, a petition was circulated around. Then it asks: "Which words should be deleted? In the evening and around? At 10 p.m. and around? In the evening?" Any answer but the first sends the film spinning back to the lesson. Get it right and you go on to the next.

There are sound economic reasons for unmuddying pompous, official communications. John O'Hayre, in the gobbledygook book, estimates every word costs the government 1.6 cents.

And that gets expensive, he says, when you consider that "in all government agencies and private industries, more people are working at producing words than at anything else."

Tomales School Bond Election Seeks To Build New High School

Residents in the two-county Tomales High School District will go to the polls Tuesday for a third time to vote on bonds for a new high school to replace the present buildings which have been condemned as unsafe by earthquake standards.

This time, the voters will be asked to approve $1,100,000 in bonds. The two previous elections asked for $900,000 in bonds.

The larger amount this time was asked because of the increased cost in construction and the larger assessed valuation of the district, said Supt. Anthony Matulich.

With the increase in assessed valuation in the district, it can bond up to $1,153,000, Matulich said. The district now has $155,000 in outstanding bonds, so it could sell up to $988,000, he said.

On Feb. 28, the bonds fell 18 votes short of the necessary two-thirds majority with 835 yes to 445 no. In the June 6 election it failed by 1,002 yes to 503 no, or by two votes.

Richard Marshall, shcool architect, has estimated the cost of the proposed building at $928,014. This school is designed for 300 students but could easily be expanded to 400 students, he said.

In addition, the bonds would cover the cost of purchasing two sites. The one proposed for the school on the Romeo Perini property a mile and a half east of the present school, and another site for a future school somewhere in the Point Reyes Station area, Matulich said.

Plans call for the bonds, if approved, to be paid over a 25-year period, Matulich said. This would require an average of 35 cents per $100 assessed valuation in additional taxes to retire the bonds, he said.

The 39,000-square-foot school designed by Marshall contains many inovations for the district. Some of the features include a court area, a gymnasium seating 500, four flexible classrooms that could double as an auditorium for 200 people, an amphitheater and a cafeteria area that could serve as a stage.

"The class rooms are open with sliding partitions to allow for flexible scheduling, team teaching or multiple classes," Marshall said.

In addition to these inovations, there are shops, agriculture and science classrooms and laboratories, home making room, art room, business education room, music room and a library, Marshall said.

Polling places in the Tuesday election will be kept open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. Polling places in Marin County will be Point Reyes School, Inverness Fire Station, Point Reyes Fire Station, Marshall Hotel and the Tomales town hall. In Sonoma County the Bloomfield Fire House, American Valley School in Valley Ford, Watson School and Bodega Bay Grange.

Driver Fined

Harry Bull Newhall, 47, of 2 Vasco Drive, Mill Valley, was fined $200 and placed on a year's probation yesterday in Marin Municipal Court for drunken driving. California Highway Patrol arrested him July 13 on Highway 101.

Burglaries Reported At Ranch

Burglary at three buildings at Stewart Ranch, Petaluma-Marshall Road, and theft of two horses there were reported yesterday by sheriff's deputies.

Officers said the horses, apparently having been ridden by the thieves, were later found unharmed in a shed at Laguna School, Chileno Valley Road.

Evelyn M. Strong, 5 Devonshire Drive, Novato, told officers Tuesday that the horses, one chestnut-colored aged 4, and a white horse aged 15, were taken from a Stewart Ranch barn. She said the intruders also broke a tack room padlock, entering to steal two saddles, a jacket, three buckets, two bridles, and other items.

Charles Giudici Sr., 11 Bayview Street, San Rafael, reported Tuesday that a hunting lodge, also on the ranch, was entered and a flashlight taken. The same day, deputies learned a summer cabin of Dick Murphy was entered on ranch grounds by prying a front door. Nothing was believed taken.

Officers said the horse and other tack room loot were found when Mrs. Kenneth Joseph, custodian at the school, arrived at work Tuesday evening.

U.S. Being Cautious To New Peace Talk

WASHINGTON (AP)—A new burst of Vietnamese peace talk, coming at least in part from Hanoi, started U.S. officials searching today for evidence tha the North Vietnamese government might be developing an interest in negotiations. But the the initial reaction here was both cautious and skeptical.

Canadian foreign secretary Paul Martin told a news conference at Ottawa yesterday that North Vietnamese authorities have expressed some interest in possible ways to start talks on ending the war.

State Department officials in Washington had been informed that a Canadian diplomat, O.W. Dier, was visiting briefly in Hanoi. But officials said they had not yet been given a report on the reported new display of interest by North Vietnamese authorities.

Parallel with this development, Johnson administration leaders were studying a sispatch distributed yesterday by the French news agency Agence France-Presse. This quoted "reliable sources" in Hanoi as saying that an unconditional halt in U.S. bombing could lead to talks in three or four weeks.

Administration informants said that the United States lacked any independent indication that the line taken by the news agency's informants was significant or represented a new turn in North Vietnamese peace maneuvering. Nevertheless indications were that President Johnson and Secretary of State Dean Rusk would make soundings through diplomatic channels to see whether some significant development was occurring.

The interpretation in the news dispatch from Hanoi was based on a widely publicized speech made by North Vietnamese Premier Fan Van Dong at the end of August. He said that if the United States "really wants to talk, it must first of all stop unconditionally the bombing of North Vietnamese and all other acts of war against the Republic of North Vietnam."

RESIGNS

reasons for which he said Brauer did not resign.

Harding then noted the problem of authority was not among the non-contributory reasons and said, "That isolates it. "Actually there are two bosses and the nine of us."

"Perhaps we need a review of the position," said Commissioner Charles B. Weers, "but I'm opposed to it being part of the administrator's office."

Other commissioners voiced doubts whether Bruce or his assistants could handle smoothly the human rights work on a steady basis, in addition to their own.

"Whether you decide this arrangement should be an interim one or longer, we can try something else if it doesn't work," Bruce said.

Gregory Baines, a Marin City youth spokesman and member of the commission's police-community relations committee, objected that coupling Orro's former chores with that of the administrator would sever human rights ties with his community. He suggested a Marin City resident fill the vacancy.

Orro, a 40-year-old Negro from San Anselmo, had been summoned to a closed session of the commission before last night's regular meeting to air "complaints" against him from an unidentified source. But the commission went promptly into open session, and Bruce's announcement followed shortly.

Quiett said he had called the closed meeting at the request of several commissioners, but was unable to give the origin of the complaints.

restrictions on how often they go to the doctor and what they go for," Reagan said. They go to the doctor with a cut finger. Unfortunately, there are some doctors who call them back several times to make sure it is healing properly."

The Medi-Cal program is intended to provide "mainstream" medical care for 1.5 million needy Californians. They may choose their own physician with the state paying the bill.

Reagan last month imposed tough new restrictions on Medi-Cal in an effort to cut its cost from $810 million to $600 million this fiscal year.

But Sacramento Superior Court Judge Irving Perluss ruled the cuts were illegal and issued an injunction to block them. Reagan plans to appeal to a higher court.

The governor thanked his department heads for economy moves already made.

"The streamlining that has occurred is fantastic," he said. "It gets me a lot of applause when I make speeches about it."

The budget for this fiscal year was $5 billion, a record. But Reagan ordered economies which held the rate of increase to the lowest level in recent years.

The advance work on this year's budget was done by the administration of former Gov. Edmund G. Brown. Reagan made it plain that his first full budget would be as tight as he could make it.

Belvedere Planning Session Postponed

The regular meeting of the Belvedere Planning Commission scheduled for Monday, has been postponed to Wednesday at 8 p.m. in Whitaker hall, 3 Bayview Avenue, according to Chairman George V. Banning.

Rifle Discovered

A .22 caliber rifle, in good condition, was found in the garbage container at 100 Bayo Vista Way in San Rafael yesterday, by Dorothy Laufenberg, a tenant in that apartment building, police reported.

Massive Air, Sea Blitz Halts Reds

SAIGON (UPI) — American forces smashed a major North Vietnamese invasion threat on South Vietnam's northern frontier, but near Saigon today Communist guerrillas caught an 800-man U.S. Army force in a machine gun and recoilless rifle barrage, military spokesmen said.

They said a massive land, sea and air blitz thwarted plans by 35,000 North Vietnamese troops to sweep away U.S. Marine forts guarding the northern frontier. But North Vietnamese artillery fire has killed 21 Leathernecks and wounded 169 others the past three days in the border battle, the spokesmen said.

In the Mekong Delta, 45 miles southwest of Saigon, the guerrillas raked with fire a U.S. Army 9th Infantry Division battalion storming ashore in an anti-Viet Cong drive.

There was no immediate report on casualties.

U.S. commanders rushed in one battalion and then another 800-man unit to reinforce the Americans fighting on the banks of the Rach Ba River. The battle raged throughout today, spokesmen said.

Today U.S. Air Force B-52 Stratofortresses staged two more raids against the North Vietnamese dug itno the six-mile-wide Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) on the North-South Vietnam border.

U.S. spokesmen also said Air Force F-4 Phantoms, the fastest American plane in the war, streaked over the DMZ first at low altitude and spotted three missile launchers, and blasted them to clear the way for the B-52 raids.

scripted and supervised by Capote and was his idea. He will continue work on the project through year's end and it is to be shown next fall. He will not appear in the program himself, he said.

Capote, who pronounces his name "Capot-ey," said he is also working on a novel which "could not be less related" to "Cold Blood." He said his book on the mass killing of a Kansas family of four will be released as a movie in December.

Capote, who occasionally pulled up his beltless pants during an interview, said he attended but two executions — those of the "Cold Blood" murderers — "and that was enough to last a life time. . . . It's always amazing how normal most of the prisoners are," he said.

Key Theft Followed By Theft Of Auto

William H. Beedle, a salesman at Annex Motors, 1826 Fourth Street, San Rafael, told police yesterday that a 1961 Thunderbird was stolen from the used car lot sometime Wednesday night.

Beedle also said a set of keys had been stolen two weeks ago.

CENTER

ter-agency relationship and public relations are attributable to the state of flux and uncertain direction in which the entire probation department currently finds itself. There is evident lack of integration among the department's various units. Definitions of responsibility and authority are not fully developed."

It recommended that the "section of the Marin County Probation Department which deals with juveniles should be formed into a single entity, under single administrative responsibility."

It proposed that "an outsider, recognized as a professional in the correctional field," be hired to assist the 11-member committee in evaluating and overhauling the department.

The type of care for juveniles offered at the family rehabilitation center — which was set up to counsel and treat both juvenile delinquents and their parents — "can be obtained from other resources more economically," said the BASPC.

"Many of the youth it has dealt with in a highly permissive atmosphere are the very ones who need, at this point in their lives, much greater superimposed restraints," the report continued. "The physical plant at FRC is more suitable for youth who are on the verge of society than for those who are extremely disturbed."

Thomas T. Storer, chairman of the board of supervisors, said the recommendation for closing FRC fits in with suggestions he repeatedly made during budget discussions. Storer said the FRC plant, which now cares for 12 juveniles, might be used partly as a "half-way house" for Juvenile Hall and partly to house girls being held at Juvenile Hall. If this were done, he said, the proposed addition to the girls' dormitory at Juvenile Hall need not be built.

"In my opinion, there is an excellent chance of saving about $200,000 in the cost of the new wing and also a part of the FRC operating budget of $186,000," said Storer.

The supervisors' chairman said he has received several reports of "permissiveness and not enough discipline" in the FRC program.

"The cost is fantastic — $1,200 per child per month, and the program doesn't seem to work," he said. "When you spend that much and don't get results, then there's something wrong."

The Family Rehabilitation Center was opened in February of 1965 at a cost of about $375,000, with a capacity for 15 boys and 15 girls. County Administrator Alan Bruce said the building has never been occupied to capacity, and there are now 12 juveniles there. He said it was set up as a long-term residential treatment for emotionally disturbed teen-agers.

The Bay Area Social Planning Council reported that when David Fogel was superintendent of Juvenile Hall, "the concensus was that he had things in hand."

The report suggests that the committee to decide on the future of juvenile probation services in Marin County should include the following:

Judge of the juvenile court, county probation officer, grand jury foreman, county administrator, clinical director of FRC, medical director of FRC, two representatives of the Juvenile Court Auxiliary, two representatives of the Juvenile Justice Commission, and the director of community mental health services.

OBITUARIES

Dog Authority Clarence J. Pfaffenberger

Private funeral for Clarence J. Pfaffenberger, insturmental in carrying out Guide Dogs for the Blind programs in San Rafael, was held Wednesday in San Bruno.

He died Sunday in San Francisco.

Pfaffenberger, 78, was known for his research and articles on dog training and on testing for the guide dogs organization to determine if a puppy would be suitable as a guide.

Pfaffenberger, of San Francisco, had been a vice president of Guide Dogs for the Blind in San Rafael ince 1946. He set up the organization's 4-H program in the mid-1940s. Members raise puppies and give them basic obedience training before turning them over to the guide dogs group for completion of training.

Pfaffenberger taught journalism at Continuation High School and at the High School of Commerce in San Francisco for 28 years. On his retirement, dog study became his full time work.

During World War II he trained rescue dogs for the Red Cross and initiated a campaign for people to donate dogs to be trained by the military for rescue and sentry duty.

He was awarded a Guggenheim Fellowship in 1953 to study puppy aptitudes for being guide dogs, work which he carried out at the San Rafael guide dogs site.

He was named dogdom's man of the year in 1958 after a nationwide poll of dog fanciers. He was a dog obedience judge, accredited by the American Kennel Club.

Pfaffenberger was born in Brownstown, Ind., and spent his childhood in Colorado. He had owned some type of dog since age 3.

He is survived by his wife, Juanita, and two daughters, Helen J. Pfaffenberger and Kathleen Kokezas.

AIRPORT

so that it can be used in all types of weather. The ditches were designed as ponding areas until low tide, when the flood gates would open and let the water out into the Petaluma River, he said.

He said that the airport was being constructed according to plans with the open ditches and that these plans had approval of the FAA.

Said Raymond Hill of 1995 Indian Valley Road, Novato: "As a low time pilot (one with not much flying time) of which there are many flying out of Novato, I feel that this is not what Marin County was looking for — having drainage ditches 30 feet from the edge of the runway."

Hugh Turenr, general manager of KTIM and a private pilot, echoed the concern of other pilots: "Even an experienced pilot knows that he has to leave the runway occasionally and there is no place there to drift."

Robert Rose of San Francisco, who has flown out of the county airport for two years, called the situation "an invitation to a real serious accident." Rose said, "It's a death trap, because occasionally a pilot has to groundloop to stop there and there is not enough room to do it without going into those ditches."

★★★★★★★★★★★★ REMEMBER ★★★★★★★★★★★★

Your "NO" vote is your only weapon with which to force school boards and politicians to install a transaction and sales tax system to replace the present monstrous property tax system.

1. You would pay less than ½ the taxes you now pay.
2. Your monthly payments on homes would be $30 & up per month less.
3. It would provide thousands of new jobs.
4. It would do away with assessors and tax collector offices.

Minority Career Training Sought

If minority persons in Marin are unable to land more skillful work because of rigorous requirements, then the manner of job training and education should be changed.

This was the opinion last night of Frank Quinn, regional director of the federal Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, who spoke to the county human rights commission.

CAREER PROGRAM

Quinn advocated a program of on-job training and classroom study be opened to minorities for careers in teaching, nursing and even as doctors and dentists.

The positions of teacher's aides or hospital orderly "need not be dead-end jobs, but beginnings to go up the ladder," Quinn said.

He suggested the commission investigate possibilities of tapping federal Office of Economic Opportunity funds to start such a program in collaboration with county hospitals and school districts.

FUNDS LACKING

However, James E. McKenna, coordinator of the county's neighborhood Youth Corps program, said he had been looking into such a project, but was told by the Department of Labor, which handles "new career" funds, that no money would be available for at least two months.

Commissioner William Moon felt it would be difficult to begin such a program without firm approval from teachers' and physicians' associations.

Commissioners Richard Harding thought the problem of not being able to find jobs for minority groups stemmed from the fact that industry, although moving to suburbs, was not coming to Marin.

Quinn did not believe, however, that Marinites had to travel out of the county in search of jobs. He said Marin showed a need for professional skills, and that persons in these fields were "becoming more aware" of the possibilities of an on-job training program.

MISNER GUIDE

In other business, the commission voted to ask the supervisors for additional funds in order that Prof. Gordon Misner, a University of California criminologist, can prepare a guide to fulfill recommendations contained in his first report on police-community relations in Marin City.

The commission agreed to try to set up a conference of law enforcement officials and judges on possible use of citations in misdemeanor arrests, one of Misner's suggestions.

Adopted and passed to the board of supervisors for action were police grievance procedures and arrest policies endorsed by the police-community relations committee. Misner's report also was sent to the supervisors.

In other business, commissioners learned that the county building and construction trades council had agreed to sponsor a pre-apprenticeship training program for 25 minority persons, with a state manpower grant of $47,535 awaiting approval of the manner in which trainees will be selected.

Six Youths Arraigned— Crowd Order

Six youths who, according to San Rafael police, defied orders during a milling crowd of about 50 "hippie-types" at Northgate Shopping Mall Wednesday were arraigned in Marin Municipal Court yesterday on a joint complaint of failing to disperse.

The six — James M. Alumbaugh, 20, of 267 Orris Terrace, Larry M. Lenhart, 19, of 1040 Los Gamos Road, Steven R. Moore, 20, of 632 Wakerobin Lane, and Daniel W. Cavaney, 18, of 16 Drakes Cove, all of Terra Linda; James E. Taylor, 18, of 1387 Clinton Court, San Rafael and Robert R. Blanch, 18, of 399 Greenberry Lane, Marinwood — were scheduled for plea entries at 1:30 p.m. Thursday on the misdemeanor charge.

Police said the crowd gathered after Patrolman David H. Jones approached a 19-year-old about using profane language in front of an elderly woman shopper, and for alleged refusal to move along at the request of a mall security officer Walter J. DeLuca.

Several in the crowd protested aloud, police said, and the officer ordered the gathering to move. Jones said the crowd was blocking a driveway and several parking spaces.

Despite repeated requests to move, the crowd stood its ground, police said. Alumbaugh was arrested first when he questioned Jones' order and declined twice to move on, police said.

Jones called for assistance and the other five, who police called the "most boisterous," were also taken into custody.

San Quentin inmate Robert Daniel Harkins, already serving time for illegal knife possession, was indicted Wednesday by Marin County Grand Jury for having another knife.

Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales said Harkins is accused of having the knife wrapped in a cloth beneath his cell mattress Aug. 19.

Harkins is serving up to three years for possession of a knife in San Joaquin County. He was sentenced April 24.

Ross Council Rejects Land Preserve Plan

The idea of designating "agricultural preserves" in Ross to help retain some of the town's character was tossed out to the Ross Town Council last night.

Councilman Roy Farrington Jones suggested that the council explore the possibility of using the system, which has been applied by Marin County, but not by a city.

Under the system an owner of a large parcel of land is given a property tax break if he pledges not to subdivide his land for 10 years.

Jones contended a tax advantage could enable those who have large parcels to hold them longer "rather than being forced into an early breakup."

"It hasn't been done in municipalities because few have parcels as large as ours," he said. "I would be willing to pay more to keep the town looking the way it does."

Mayor Frederick S. Allen wondered if the system could only be applied to agricultural land.

Councilmen agreed to have town attorney Robert W. Elliott determine if "agricultural preserves" could be established in Ross.

The Ross City Council Also:

ZONING INITIATIVE — Invited attorney Julius H. Selinger, representing the Ross Property Rights Association, to attend its adjourned meeting next Wednesday at 8 p.m. to discuss extending the deadline for non-conforming rental units, which will be illegal under present law after Feb. 10, 1968. The association is circulating an initiative ordinance petition to extend the deadline.

PAVING FIRM — Notified W. H. Bettencourt at 1 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard to cease his paving firm operation at that address, charging it is in violation of the zoning ordinance and lacking a business license.

BUILDING FEE — Set the minimum building fee at $5. Roy Farrington Jones reported that some fees had been as low as $3.

TAXI FARES — Approved San Rafael Taxi Cabs Inc. bid to increase its rates from 60 to 70 cents for the first two-fifths of a mile, and from $1.50 to $2 for each quarter hour of waiting.

AUTO SIGN — Notified Jean's Kitchen, 9 Poplar Avenue, that its advertising sign atop an automobile must be removed and the existing A-frame sign at the restaurant is non-conforming.

FIRE DEPARTMENT — Agreed that volunteer firemen should have training in the use of a resuscitator, should qualify to drive fire trucks and the ranks of volunteers should be increased. Mayor Allen urged more recruitment, remarking "at our last fire drill, there were three there."

PARCEL ACQUISITION — Referred to Town Engineer Philip B. Lygren for study a request from Elizabeth D. Litchfield and William L. Kerr to acquire a 40-foot parcel of Bridge Road adjoining their property.

CONSTITUTION WEEK — Mayor Allen proclaimed the week of Sept. 17-23 as Constitution Week, at the request of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

MORRISON ROAD REPAIR — Received a report from Lygren that repair of flood damage to Morrison Road could be undertaken this year, with prospects good for a state contribution.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned until 8 p.m. next Wednesday to complete necessary steps to borrow $50,000 from the Wells Fargo Bank, San Francisco.

Ross Council Backs Bureau Abuse Plans

Ross Town Council last night approved formation of a county-wide drug abuse bureau if its function is limited to the field of narcotics.

Councilmen approved a proposed city-county joint powers agreement to establish the bureau, except for one phrase concerning the duties of the proposed bureau.

The objected to the wording "but are not limited to," which preceded a list of the duties.

Councilman Roy Farrington Jones, the lone dissenter, said: "I don't trust the motives of the county."

He said he disn't want "to be sucked into a city-county type of police department run by the sheriff's office."

The council took no action on a proposed city-county agreement on formation of a city-council planning council.

Mayor Allen noted the council hadn't yet received a revised version of the proposal, recently drawn up by the Marin City-County Services Committee.

THE LONG WAY 'ROUND

This 111-foot pre-stressed concrete beam was angled through the intersection at Second and Lincoln streets, San Rafael yesterday. It is last of a series taken through the city in the last three days to avoid a Highway 101 overpass. The 19 beams constructed in Petaluma normally would have been driven down the highway to their destination at a bridge construction job in Santa Cruz. But the San Quentin overpass leading to the Richmond Bridge is too curving to take the chance on one of the 43-ton beams falling off a truck.

Doctors Brand LSD Taking Drug Roulette

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The California Medical Association warned today playing with LSD is a dangerous form of drug roulette.

Any person taking it runs a risk of psychotic breakdown and physiological damage, the association said in a position paper approved by the CMA's Executive Council.

The statement also criticized use of marijuana.

"Marijuana does not produce physical addiction, but it does produce significant dependence, to a serious degree," the CMA said.

EXPERIMENT RISK

"The social influences surrounding the use of marijuana also encourage experimentation with other drugs, notably LSD..."

However, the statement said the CMA "does not have the scientific facts, nor unanimous opinion of its members, to reccomend major legislative changes related to drug abuse at this time."

LSD, the statement said, calls for "reasoned action by the entire community, because legal prohibition does not seem to have been sufficient and may even have driven the problem further underground."

BRAIN, GENE HARM

"We know now that long-term subtle psychological damage may result from LSD. Such damage may be glossed over by the pleasure and enthusiasm engendered by the substance, but we have seen too many cases of psychic breakdown to doubt the serious dangers of the drugs.

"It is even possible that the brain is structurally damaged. There is recent evidence that LSD attacks hereditary genes."

"In short, our professional medical opinion is that playing with LSD is a desperately dangerous form of drug roulette."

The key language of the CMA statement was adopted from one by two officials of Harvard University Health Services.

Sausalito To Decide Tuesday On Library

Tuesday's library referendum election in Sausalito will be a climax, one way or another, to a story that goes back more than 50 years.

Almost everyone in Sausalito agrees that a new library is needed to replace the cramped second-story, 58-year-old library now in use. But a considerable number objects strongly to the present plan to put the library on city-owned waterfront land, where they say it will block waterfront and bay views.

It was that objection which brought on the referendum election, and which defeated a bond issue last March to finance the library.

Sausalitans Tuesday will vote "yes" or "no" on a city council plan to build and buy by 20-year lease-purchase a 9,000-square-foot library at an estimated cost of $401,000. The one-story building is to be built partly on treated wooden pilings, and site plans call for a pedestrian walk along the shoreward side of the building.

The plan is trimmed both in size and cost from the one which drew a 56 per cent "yes" vote in the March bond election. The plan then called for 10,500 square feet at a cost of approximately $450,000.

The present situation has echoes all the way back to 1911. That was when Sausalito turned down a Carnegie library grant — because citizens could not agee on a library location.

PRESENT DRIVE

The present drive for the new library began last October when the library board chose the waterfront site and recommended building the new library there.

The arguments started shortly afterwards. The Sausalito Citizens Council rumbled that the bond issue was too big, but took no official stand. The Rotary Club took an official stand against the bonds, and the Sausalito Chamber of Commerce submitted the only ballot argument against the bond issue.

The $250,000 bond issue was to be augmented with $82,885 already in the city's library construction fund and a $148,906 federal grant which was sought.

The 56 per cent "yes" vote was well short of the two-thirds majority required.

The council and library board went back to work, and a citizens' committee was named to study other library sites. The committee recommended the Bridgeway parking lot site and said the library should be reduced to 9,000 square feet.

The council accepted the shrinkage and decided on lease-purchase of the library, but stuck to the waterfront site.

Opposition was not long in forming, again centering around the site. A referendum petition drive started in mid-March, just a week after the council decision for lease-purchase.

SIGNATURE DRIVE

The Sausalito Voters League, formed to force the referendum, gathered 722 signatures in three weeks, more than twice the number required. The council then set the referendum election.

Arguments presented in recent weeks, at a debate sponsored by the city citizens council and an information session by the city council, remain centered on the site.

Proponents of the plan say the waterfront site is city-owned and free except for $20,000 settlement of a long-term lease on part of the land. Any other site would cost $150,000 to $250,000.

Opponents say the city has for several years based its planning on keeping the waterfront open, and changing course for the library is inconsistent and damaging to the over-all pattern of the city.

Financing the library will present little problem. The city has nearly $85,000 now in the library fund, and a $126,134 federal grant has been approved — on condition the referendum doesn't kill the library. The remaining cost would be paid off at $12,095 a year, City Mgr. George M. Patterson told the council.

Grant Denied Over Policy On Vietnam

BERKELEY (AP) — The National Science Foundation has rejected a $247,000 research grant request for a project headed by Dr. Stephen Smale, mathematics professor who opposes U.S. actions in Vietnam.

The rejection by the federal government foundation was disclosed yesterday although the foundation had written two weeks ago to Dean Sanford E. Elberg, who is in charge of the over-all research administration at the University of California's Berkeley campus.

William E. Wright, the foundation's director of mathematical and physical sciences, wrote: "We have come to the conclusion that in light of Professor Smale's performance in the administration of the present grant we cannot tender a new grant to the university based on the proposal in its present form."

The foundation suggested a new application which would isolate Smale's financial requirements from those of other researchers. Smale, 37, refused and demanded that the NSF provide specifics on how he had failed as an administrator.

18-Cent Drop In School Tax For Larkspur

The Larkspur School District board learned last night that the district's tax rate for fiscal 1968 has been set at $3.40 per $100 assessed valuation, 18 cents below last year.

Assessed valuation in the district totals $33 million.

The board heard a request from the Reed School District that the boundary between the two districts, which runs through portions of the Mariner Green Apartments on Paradise Drive in Corte Madera, be straightened to allow fifteen students there to attend the Reed District. The board will consider the matter at the next meeting.

The Larkspur School District Board also:

TOUR — Set a special meeting for 9 a.m. Sept. 28 to tour district schools to see work that has been done or still needs attention.

CLAIM — Rejected a claim for $750,000 on behalf of Morgan West for injuries he allegedly suffered in a rock fight at Larkspur-Corte Madera School in July, during a Larkspur-Corte Madera city recreation program.

BOND ELECTION — Endorsed the Tamalpais High School District's Oct. 10 $12,315,000 bond election.

TEACHERS — Learned the district has 75 teachers, three more than last year, with a student-teacher ratio of 24 to one; accepted the resignation of teacher Susan Meyers and hired teacher Joanne Drehes at $6,562 a year.

AIDES — Approved an agreement with San Francisco State College for teaching aides.

ENROLLMENT — Learned the district has a total of 1,750 students for the fall semester, compared to 1,745 in the spring.

Inmate Battles To Halt Death

Dorman Fred Talbot, one of two San Quentin inmates scheduled to be executed Oct. 10, has filed for a stay.

The 27-year-old Death Row inmate petitioned federal court in San Francisco on grounds that persons opposed to the death penalty were excluded from his jury.

Talbot was convicted in Santa Barbara in July, 1965, of killing Michael Denn Bartholomew, 20, in Port Hueneme.

Judge Eases Order On Medi-Cal Slashes

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A superior court judge today eased his order halting Gov. Ronald Reagan's cutbacks in California's multi-million dollar program of medical aid to the poor.

Judge Irving Perluss of Sacramento said the administration can limit the number of prescription drugs available to the poor. And he said the state can reduce the time recipients may stay in private hospitals.

He told Deputy Atty. Gen. Richard Mayers the state could proceed with cutbacks in two fields because they did not affect what he termed basic services.

The judge made the statement at a hearing on his order declaring the cutbacks in the Medi-Cal program illegal. He had issued a permanent injunction against them.

Perluss told Mayers the administration will be permitted to restrict payments for prescription drugs to non-emergencies.

He also said that payments for hospital care can be limited to financing eight days in a private hospital. After that, the patients would have to move to a county hospital.

Perluss sided with the administration on another issue.

He said Health and Welfare Agency chief Spencer Williams was justified in telling medical men they might not be paid for Medi-Cal services they are now providing if the administration wins its appeal against the court order.

He said Williams warning was not a violation of his order.

The administration ordered a $210 million cutback in the aid program to meet an expected deficit. Financed by federal, state and local funds, the Medi-Cal program is expected to cost more than $900 million this year. It provides aid to some 200,000 poor Californians.

Negroes Riot Over Beating

CHICAGO (AP)—Negroes thronged the streets of a South Side neighborhood yesterday, hurling rocks and curses at police after a meeting protesting alleged police brutality.

The skirmishing and window-smashing began after the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee and other neighborhood groups held a street rally protesting the alleged police beating of an 18-year-old Forrestville High School girl student.

By the time it ended, some seven hours later, 13 persons —including 6 policemen—were injured and 47 persons were under arrest on charges including aggravated battery, mob action and disorderly conduct.

School Dropouts In Good Paying Jobs

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The Neighborhood Youth Corps reported yesterday that 24 San Francisco school dropouts are now permanently employed as $114 a week apprentices at the Hunters Point Naval Shipyard. Of the youths, 16 are Negroes.

Joseph A. Rock, the project's city coordinator, said another 33 youths are being trained at the shipyard.

Brown Believes Reagan Will Get The Nomination

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Former Gov. Edmund G. Brown says he thinks his successor, Ronald Reagan, is running for the Republican presidential nomination and has a good chance to win it.

Brown told reporters yesterday: "I don't think there is anyone in California at all familiar with politics who doesn't believe he is running hard for the Republican nomination."

Brown also criticized Reagan —for the governor's opinion that the Vietnam war effort should be strengthened; for proposals that fees be increased at the University of California and for proposed cuts in Medi-Cal, mental health and probation caseloads.

Concerning the cutbacks, Brown said Reagan was running "a cruel administration."

Brown, now a Los Angeles resident, was here to endorse William A. Newsom Jr., a candidate for the San Francisco Board of Supervisors.

Ferryboat Talk

Harlan L. Soeten of Mill Valley, an advocate of ferryboat transportation, will speak before the Marin Citizens Transportation Committee at the Civic Center on Thursday at 8 p.m. in Room. 413.

Employee Pay Hikes On Agenda

The San Anselmo School District board will consider a second pay increase for employees Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at Red Hill School.

In May the board granted raises for employees which added $44,706 to the budget, then agreed to consider further salary increases if more money became available. Assembly Bill 272 has made another $20,297 available to the district.

The board will hear a report on the fall enrollment, and will consider applications for $17,682 for a library aide program and $3,100 for library books in federal funds.

DINING OUT AND INNS

By HARRY CRAFT

Worldwide Dining Delicacies On The Menu At Cherish Inn

Two years ago a somewhat different concept in restaurant operations was introduced in Marin County at Strawberry Town and Shopping Center.

Cherish Inn was named after a fictional character, Captain Horatio Cherish, who was purported to have roamed the world picking up choice recipes from every port. Such still is the basis for Cherish Inn's seven-country dinner carte.

Horatio's menu contributions still are there, along with some others of a conventional nature, but over the two years there have been several operational changes. Food preparation has improved, with a number of items now being prepared entirely at the Cherish Inn kitchen instead of at the San Francisco facility. The Inn has always been a stickler for the highest quality meats, poultry and vegetables; a diner fares exceptionally well at its tables. Steaks, filets and such are the tenderest ever.

The restaurant has the same sort of plush informailty that characterizes the rest of Town and Country Village, making it a place you can take your most distinguished guests with assurance.

Strongly recommended for the family trade are the "Early Bird Dinners" between 5 and 7 p.m. Then, the sophisticates are concentrated in the cocktail lounge, leaving dining room especially quiet and relaxing. Early bird dinners are changed daily and represent as many as eight different entrees (and different countries) from the regular menu. But prices for the complete dinner are held at $3.35. There is also generally a weekend special for any dinner hour.

Meanwhile, the cocktail lounge, as I say, is frequently overflowing. Prices for call drinks are lower between 5 and 7, and Al Gehl plays the Baldwin organ. Lee Lees takes over for the rest of the evening, and if you make a special request sha may even play a musical's entire score instead of just the hit number you asked for.

Cherish Inn lunches are highlighted by one or two daily specials as riders to a very extensive menu of omelettes, sandwiches, salads and entrees. Wednesday lunchtime fashion shows bring the ladies up to date on latest numbers at the village style shops.

One of many improvements made by manager Lou Finness since he has had the reins here has been to install a removable divider in the dining roon, with regular diners on one side and banquet space on the other. The divider is movable, allowing the entire area to be opened if necessary, but it does give privacy for special groups of up to 90 or so.

I WILL BE ON VACATION for the next three weeks — so don't look for a Friday column on this page then. Meanwhile, watch Corey's on downtown Fourth Street, San Rafael for some changes.

Owners Ernest Mejia and Antonio Gutierrez and their charming wives are planning on redecorating the entire place — the work should begin in another week or so. Colors will be softer. As far as possible, the work will be done after hours at night, so as not to bother the customers.

And Ernie, who owns Academy Piano and Organ Co. on C Street around the corner, says he will bring a Wurlitzer into Corey's and offer console music.

Beef-kabob apparently is still the best seller on the menu here.

WORD FROM CO-OWNER Jeaneille (I spelled it wrong last time) is that Taberna, successor to Two Bells, should open at 1 Vivian Way, San Rafael about the middle of October.

Plans and decisions are still being made, but it appears that it will be a combination of cocktail lounge and restaurant, serving both lunches and dinners Mondays through Saturdays. However, dinner menu may be limited to a few entrees.

There will be dancing three nights a week, and with the holiday season approaching this should stir up a few special parties. More about all this when I return from vacation. Taberna should be ready to take off about that time.

I THOUGHT I might miss the opening of the new Lyons Restaurant at Northgate Shopping Center's Unit Three — but now I understand the date has been set over to Oct. 17.

JEAN'S KITCHEN in Ross, closed on recent Sundays, is back on a seven-days-a-week schedule from 7 a.m. to 9 p.m., serving complete breakfasts, lunches and dinners.

I say complete, because this is no counter establishment serving short orders. In fact there is no counter at all — full meals are offered with table service.

Owner Jean Dobson has now removed herself from cooking and is handling the front end. She has the right personality for these duties and will make you feel comfortable.

YOUNGEST HOTEL MANAGER in the country when he was in charge of the Victorian Hotel in San Francisco was Howard Blethin Jr. of San Rafael. He is now managing the clubhouse at the San Geronimo National Golf Course.

This means excellent handling of parties and banquets at San Geronimo for the fall and through the holidays. The clubhouse has ample room — space for about 300 persons at the tables, or cut that to 225, if space is saved for dinner dancing. Smaller groups can be accommodated, of course.

Howard, a graduate of the San Francisco City College restaurant and food service school, is a member of an old San Francisco hotel family that for many years owned the old Colonial Hotel.

MANAGER Lou Ganapolar of the Trident in Sausalito has purchased the Jazz Workshop at 473 Broadway, San Francisco — home of many leading jazz artists for more than a decade. While he will function as its owner and manager, he definitely has no intention of giving up his post at the Trident where he has been since 1961.

He plans to refurbish the Jazz Workshop from top to bottom by the middle of next January. Meanwhile these acts have been booked: The Gabor Szabo Quartet through this Sunday; the Denny Zeitlin Trio Monday through Wednesday; and the Ornette Coleman Quartet from Thursday through the rest of September.

At the Trident the Gary Burton Quartet opened a four-week engagement on Tuesday, featuring popular guitarist Larry Coryell and Steve Swallow on bass. The group plays nightly except Mondays when the Jean Hoffman Trio is heard.

UNLESS I eat the wrong things on tour you should hear from me again Friday, Oct. 13. Hm-m-m. Is that significant of something?

McCarthy Aide To State Post

SACRAMENTO (AP)—Frank Reynolds, aide to Sen. John F. McCarthy, R-San Rafael, was appointed yesterday to the post of deputy director of the State Professional and Vocational Standards Department.

Reynolds, 40, is the husband of Nancy Clark Reynolds, Gov. Reagan's assistant press secretary.

Reynolds will assume his new, $17,500-a-year job on Oct. 1, said Henry M. Shine, department director.

FRENCH FLOCK TO FILL UP ON FREE FISH

PARIS (AP) — In what was billed as the world's biggest buffet, an estimated 42,000 Parisians crowded into Les Halles, the capital's central market, Wednesday to eat sea food.

Beside French love of food there was another reason for the crowd: The food was free.

Bank presidents, salesmen, workers, panhandlers stood elbow to elbow at tables laden with sardines, trout, sole, codfish and oysters at the first "fishmongers feast."

When it was over, 10 tons of fish, 300,000 oysters, and untold gallons of wine had been consumed.

Robert Conti, president of the Information Committee for the Consumption of Fish, said the feast was "to reacquaint Frenchmen with the taste of fish."

MINI-SKIRT BAN PROTESTED

Tustin (Orange County) High School students are protesting school clothing discipline inequities, after a total of 578 students were ordered home, mostly on grounds of too-short skirts. Luana Smith (right) was barred from class Wednesday while Helen Grossman (left) was allowed to remain. The girls say most dressmakers cater to fashion and few stores have long-enough skirts in stock. Fair/Marin Session Monday For Planning

Leaders of some 90 organizations in the county will gather at the Civic Center Monday to get information on formation of Fair/Marin, a non-profit corporation that will operate the fairgrounds area at the Civic Center.

Harold Stockstad of Marin City, acting chairman of the Fair/Marin organizing committee, will preside at the meeting at 8 p.m. in the supervisors' chambers. The board of supervisors has invited 93 organizations in all, including each city council.

Mrs. Donald G. Kelly, secretary of the committee, said Mrs. Vera Schultz will give background on Fair/Marin, Mr. Marilyn Miskimen will describe by-laws and the organizational structure and James Reed III will explain why the corporation is needed. Clifford Lund will project the economic & cultural impact of the fair.

After the meeting, each representative will go back to his respective organization to decide on who will be the official delegate. Mrs. Kelly said delegates will then gather for an organizational meeting, tentatively scheduled for Oct. 9 at the Civic Center. The organizing committee will then turn over the job of forming corporation to the delegates.

Mrs. Kelly said the delegates will approve by-laws and incorporate. They will then nominate 14 persons as candidates for executive directors of the corporation. From the 14, the supervisors will name seven.

Researchers have given rats ulcers and literally driven them crazy with loud sounds.

Marin's Anti-War Group Still Seeking Signatures

Despite last month's Vietnam war vote rejection in San Francisco Superior Court, members of the Vietnam Initiative Committee in Marin are still working to obtain 14,000 signatures by January.

Committee chairman Mike Oster yesterday reported, however, that returns have been slow. To date only 410 of the necessary signatures are in, he said.

On the 635 petitions now in circulation, Oster said he believes at least 200 more signatures have been obtained."

"I won't know for sure for at least a month," he said. "I've instructed everyone with petitions to keep them out until they're filled."

Oster said he does not feel the recent denial in San Francisco is effecting the results here either way. "It's worth a try," he said. "We're at least going to exhaust the alternative."

On Aug. 31, Judge Byron Arnold denied the vote in the city across the bay, saying that both the city charter and the state constitution prohibit such a vote.

Oster said the petition drive will continue at least until the San Francisco test case, now before the California Supreme Court, has been decided.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

Spirit Of '87 Seems Often Absent Now

"We have now the honor to submit to the consideration of the United States in congress assembled, that Constitution which has appeared to us the most advisable.

"The friends of our country have long seen and desired, that the power of making war, peace, and treaties, of levying money and regulating commerce, and the correspondent executive and judicial authorities should be fully and effectually vested in the general government of the Union; but the impropriety of delegating such extensive trust to one body of men is evident — Hence results the necessity of a different organization.

"IT IS OBVIOUSLY impracticable in the federal government of these states, to secure all rights of independent sovereignty to each, and yet provide for the interest and safety of all. Individuals entering into society must give up a share of liberty to preserve the rest. The magnitude of the sacrifice must depend as well on situation and circumstances as on the object to be obtained."

With these words, the Constitutional Convention of the United States of America, over the signature of its president, George Washington, opened its letter to Congress presenting a constitution for our country's first real federal government.

The date was Sept. 17, 1787 — 180 years ago Sunday.

THE CONSTITUTION had been hammered out in three months of meetings in Philadelphia. Many of the delegates were under instructions only to amend the Articles of Confederation under which the 13 former British colonies were loosely banded. But early in their discussions, they recognized this would not do: the United States must have a true federal government to survive.

There was much give-and-take during the long discussions in the building that subsequently became known as Constitution Hall. Sometimes the debate was acrimonious. But as each point was honed and hammered, turned and polished, the result became an acceptable compromise.

Little has been changed in the ensuing 180 years in the Constitution to which those 38 men in Philadelphia appended their signatures. There is a tendency these days to reinterpret what they wrote — although they took great care to make each article subject to but one interpretation. But all in all, the Constitution they produced has stood the test of time, to prove itself as one of the greatest governmental documents in the history of the human race.

ONE REASON for this is its very spirit of compromise, as indicated in these words with which George Washington transmitted it to the congress:

"It is obviously impracticable . . . to secure all rights of independent sovereignty to each, and yet provide for the interest and safety of all. Individuals entering into society must give up a share of liberty to preserve the rest."

Too many today, 180 years later, have forgotten this. Too many, to secure what they are pleased to call "civil rights," are willing to trample on the interest and safety of others rather than give up a little of their own.

Peace Protest Mob Action May Coincide With Bombing Pause

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — The peace movement is changing strategy and tactics to become more militant.

Organizers of next month's massive anti-war demonstration here are planning to use tactics designed to provoke violence by trying to shut down vital defense operations.

The strategy of the National Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam provides for ringing the Pentagon with a human blockade of 100,000 peace activists so that none of an estimated 10,000 employees can get to their jobs on that day.

By triggering this direct confrontation, strategists of the peace movement believe they can force U.S. authorities to call in army units since neither the regular Defense Department guards or state police of Virginia, where the Pentagon is located, would be able to handle such a peace mob.

EITHER BY ACCIDENT or design, the anti-war protest will coincide with two unannounced war emergency moves being planned by the Johnson Administration.

The first is an announcement of a short pause in the bombing of North Vietnam planned for mid-October. It will be issued in response to a request from President-Elect Nguyen Van Theiu after he assumes office next month in South Vietnam.

The second is the initial gathering here of all of the 4,000 members of the National Defense Executive Reserve, who have government assignments to take over top level positions in time of national emergency. The reserve includes many of the nation's top business executives.

Since a number of the NDER will be training in their mobilization assignments at the Pentagon over the Oct. 21-22 weekend, the anti-war demonstration could involve them in an exercise approaching the real thing.

TELEGRAPHING THE PUNCH — The possibility of a violent confrontation is also indicated in policy statements by Jerry Rubin, militant pro-Castro student leader picked by the National Mobilization Committee to direct the Pentagon shutdown.

"The peace movement is no longer one of mere protest and demonstrations," the 20-year-old Rubin lectured organizers recently in his newly acquired Washington headquarters. "We are now in the business of wholesale and widespread resistance and dislocation of American society. Our immediate objective is to close down the Pentagon. We will provoke an incident that has world-wide repercussions, whatever its outcome."

Friends of Rubin, who founded the Vietnam Day Committee in 1965 after returning from a two-month trip to Cuba, claim that he is capable of doing just that.

In his preparations for the Pentagon blockade, Rubin is being aided by the Rev. James Bevel, director of the National Mobilization Committee and an important aide of Dr. Martin Luther King. Bevel organized the New York peace rally last May that drew 100,000.

A scribbled note in one of the National Mobilization Committee staff's files says: "LBJ and all 50 governors will be out of country on Oct. 21. This should be considered in our planning."

On that date all or most of the nation's governors will be aboard ship returning from the Virgin Islands. They will be guests of the governor there for two days during their seagoing national conference.

The White House refused to reveal the President's plans for October 21. However, some administration insiders report the President is considering another Pacific trip to confer with his military advisers on Vietnam in October.

RECRUITING LABOR — A meeting of peace advocates from unions November 11 in Chicago will seek to determine how labor can be brought into the growing anti-Vietnam war movement.

Preparations for the conference are being made by the National Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy headed by Dr. Benjamin Spock, which so far has been unsuccessful in efforts to get rank-and-file union members to join in the peace movement.

Three secretary-treasurers of AFL-CIO unions, who have joined in the movement, will attend the Chicago meeting: Patrick E. Gorman, of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen, Emil Mazey of the United Automobile Workers, and Frank Rosenblum of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers.

All That Glitters Is Gold When Bridge District Buys

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District has been taking some lumps in allegations of racial discrimination in hiring, and for its directors' taste for expensive cars and board room furniture.

But an indelicate subject, so far subject to no public debate, is the district's practice of bypassing competitive bidding on the huge quantity of paint it slaps on the bridge. And that's a lot of paint.

THE QUESTION of whether to continue buying paint from only one manufacturer came up at last Friday's board of directors meeting. After no debate, directors agreed unanimously to continue the practice.

The paint, Dimecote IV, manufactured by Amercoat Corp., costs the district $12.45 a gallon.

Tests of the paint, reported district engineer Robert E. Shields, indicate the paint "is a superior product for the environment and application problems of the Golden Gate Bridge." Noting "it is very necessary to use the best of materials for this work," he recommended it "be the only product used for painting at this time."

Shields also recommended "that the paint testing program be continued with open invitation to all paint suppliers to test their product in our environment and conditions." He urged that "all efforts be made to locate a second material brand which can then be used to permit valid competitive bids on this material."

"UNTIL THAT TIME," he concluded, "no attempt (should) be made to obtain competitive bids involving inferior products according to our own evaluation."

Gen. Mgr. James Adam noted that former district engineer Arthur C. Jenkins reported in June "there is only one manufacturer that can measure up to the rigid specifications which I personally feel are justified. . . . Nothing less than the best should be purchased."

The recommendations by Jenkins and Shields raise several questions, but none of the bridge brass could be reached this week for explanations. They all were at a California Fair Employment Practices Commission hearing into charges of racial discrimination in hiring. It was at this FEPC hearing that the charge that rust is allowed to remain under the paint was made.

AT LEAST, district directors are consistent: When they agreed last week that a checkup was needed of the bridge's structural strength, they considered only one firm for the job — the same firm that recently got a $265,000 contract to prepare engineering and cost estimates for a second deck.

The checkup is expected to cost at least $200,000, Shields told directors. That's tolls from motor vehicle drivers.

The firm, Ammann and Whitney of New York, has "unique experience in this field," said Adam.

No wonder it's called the Golden Gate Bridge!

Level Headlands To Span The Gate

Editor, Independent-Journal:

With all the talk about bridges, tunnels, ferry boats, etc., it is hard to know where one is with regard to Bay Area development and transportation. And with all the cost involved, we will be paying tolls forever.

A second deck on the Golden Gate Bridge would not be too costly, and it should take care of traffic for the next 10 years — or at least until more substantial plans can be developed.

I think it is time that more serious thought should be given to more permanent expansion of facilities. We always seem to underestimate the needs of our people in any given period, and this leaves us cramped for space and facilities.

An earth-filled crossing should be considered where possible, with an opening for water traffic. The big, useless hill on the Marin side of the Golden Gate is just waiting to be recognized for what it is — a lot of fill for a very usefull purpose, which will still leave a lot of room for a park. It will be valuable property after about 400,000,000 cubic yards of dirt and rock are used for a good crossing that will in time be the best thing we ever did.

San Francisco will want to annex the area, if properly done, and it will do away with all other expensive traffic problems and in time the unnecessary toll, because we will have a big wide bridge instead of an expensive, narrow and impossibly long one.

An overall plan must be developed for the north bay area before it is over-developed with no regard to the future needs of the people.

Garbage Collector Goes Beyond Duty

Editor, Independent-Journal:

This week a dog got into our service yard, knocked over trash cans, tore up paper sacks and made a mess of the entire area. I planned to ask my young son to pick it up after school, but failed to do so.

Next morning the scavenger service called at our 3 Capri Court home in San Rafael. Their employee did not merely dispose of the waste in the container, but picked up and straightened out the entire service yard area, unknown and unasked.

In these times when fewer people seem willing to give a day's work for a day's pay, when many of those who will work at all ask what can I get without a thought about what can I give, when employees are so concerned about drawing rigid lines about the borders of their tasks and responsibilities beyond which they will not venture, it is to me highly refreshing to find evidence a man in a non-glamorous job not only does it faithfully and well, but goes well beyond the requirements of his employment to give that extra bit of service so rarely seen today. - So I would like to thank an unknown scavenger — a man who is doing his job and more without request. He can hold his head high — and if he has a cause, I will support it. If we can develop and encourage more of his type and worry less about the unwashed and non-working bums that have infiltrated our midst our land may yet recapture some of those characteristics which once made it great.

WHAT OTHER EDITORS SAY

The Inexcusable Inflation

(Reprinted from Wall Street Journal)

Several things need to be said about the current, rapidly developing price inflation — which comes on top of considerable inflation in the past couple of years and a great deal of it over the past generation.

First and foremost, it is wholly unnecessary and inexcusable, being manufactured out of indiscipline in Washington. Gardner Ackley, the President's chief economic adviser, may find certain steel price rises distressing; he ought also to admit the Johnson Administration's heavy culpability in creating the conditions that make these and hundreds of other increases inevitable.

Unquestionably the Vietnam war has added a lot to federal spending and hence to the enormous prospective deficits. The deep intervention in that war may have been the Johnson Administration's paramount mistake, but whether it was or wasn't, financial responsibility plainly required offsetting reductions in other spending. Instead the Administration recklessly increases spending on a host of domestic welfare programs.

To add to the taxpayer's bitterness, the programs are largely wasteful and ineffective; the problems they are aimed at grow worse, not better. . . .

Secondly, inflation is not necessarily proof of a boom. . . . Inflation itself can easily become a depressant; consumers bombarded by price boosts on all sides may stop buying on the grand scale to which they have become accustomed.

Finally, the proposed tax increase is no answer to inflation, given the Administration's adamant resistance to any kind of restraint at all. Congress may end up enacting it, simply out of fear of the vast deficits in prospect, but to do so is to skip the relevant questions.

There is every reason to believe that if the Administration gets its tax "surcharge" it will boost its outlays that much more than it would otherwise have done. . . . Is Congress going to see to it that the surcharge is accompanied by substantial cuts in spemding? Not likely.

And what about monetary policy? The Federal Reserve Board, presently an amiable handmaiden at the White House, has been inflating the money supply like crazy. This even more than the deficits (which to a degree can be financed in noninflationary ways) is generating the scourge of price rises. If Congress hikes taxes, is it also going to demand a cessation of that policy? Not likely. If not, the inflation will roll right along.

In the circumstances a tax increase is a gratuitous insult to the public. The Government waters your money by decreasing your purchasing power via inflation and then it confiscates more by the direct route of taxation. . . .

The dismaying thing is that so far there is no really loud outcry; hardly anybody utters an audible Stop thief! . . .

To the extent we the people are silent we too are guilty, guilty of conniving in the undermining of the very financial foundations on which all else is built.

TRY AND STOP ME

By BENNETT CERF

A storekeeper fell behind in his payments to a supplier, and, furthermore, completely ignored three increasingly sharp letters demanding payment. Finally the supplier appeared in person, waving a sheaf of unpaid bills in the storekeeper's face. The storekeeper thereupon astounded him by paying up in full without a moment's hesitation. "Why didn't you send me a check and save both of us all this unpleasantness?" demanded the supplier.

"I didn't have the cash to begin with," admitted the storekeeper, "so I copied your letters and mailed them out to the people who owed me. The results were so gratifying I held up my payments to you till I could get your complete set."

Library Opponents Not Around To Save Waterfront From Club

The final battle in Sausalito's bitter Library War will be fought Tuesday, when voters enter the lists and decide the library's fate by casting their ballots in a referendum election.

The issue is a marvel of simplicity: Shall the library be built on the waterfront?

There has been no denial from any quarter of the need for a new library in Sausalito. In fact, even those most opposed to the proposed waterfront site stress the need and insist that a library must be built somewhere.

OPPONENTS, objecting to the site, claim that it will deny the people a portion of what should be open waterfront.

However, the creation of this handsome public building — a cultural gathering place for the city's children, senior citizens and the intellectually and artistically inclined — will be an important step toward preserving the waterfront for the people.

It will draw the citizenry to the waterfront —even in inclement weather — and encourage enjoyment of the splendors of the bay from large view windows, open terraces and a sheltering lee. It will be set back sufficiently far to allow an esplanade between itself and the bay for pedestrians to stroll.

As a public building in the vicinity of what is ultimately to be a park, it will open the waterfront to the people and help insure development of that vital area of the city in the public interest.

WHERE WERE the opponents to the library site during the meeting of the Sausalito Planning Commission last Wednesday night, when a private club — which blocks views by necessity and excludes the public by intention — sought a permit to expand its presence on the waterfront?

Only two — both of them planning commissioners —of the 40 signers of the sample ballot argument against the library site were present to "save" the waterfront for the people from a privileged few.

One of the most ardent pleaders that night for expansion of the Sausalito Yacht Club was Theodore T. Boutmy, a member of the commission and architect for the yacht club. Boutmy had the grace to abstain from the voting — which ended in a 3-3 deadlock — but not to refrain from urging his fellow commissioners to give him what he wanted: permission to enlarge the club he designed.

CONSPICUOUS, by their absence, were the leaders of the opposition to the library site:

Robin Sweeny, whose husband, John A. Sweeny — a charter member and past commodore of the yacht club — was most active in placing a private club on that very stretch of water.

William W. Remak of Sausalito Artists and Merchants, ordinarily a dedicated attendant upon council and commission deliberations.

Carl W. Spring of the Sausalito Citizens Council, an organization which seldom supports an action from which anyone but some residents of the "banana belt" might benefit.

Those who go to the polls Tuesday might ask themselves why those, who are so alarmed about the intrusion of a public building on public land for public benefit, seem so unconcerned about a private intrusion by a club for a privileged few.

ART BUCHWALD

McNamara's Top Secret Plan: A Wall Around George Romney

WASHINGTON — It is not being publicized at the moment, but Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara will soon announce a plan to build a "wall" around Gov. George Romney.

McNamara hopes the new barrier, which will consist of concrete denials, barbed wire stories and electronic monitoring devices, will slow down Romney's attacks on the Johnson Administration's Vietnam policies.

An Administration spokesman told me, "Romney has been laying down a barrage of false charges against the President and the secretary of defense, and he's been infiltrating the American electorate. We have no choice but to fire back."

"WHAT ABOUT ROMNEY'S charges that he was brainwashed in Vietnam?"

"Everyone knows that it is a violation of the Geneva Conventions to brainwash a governor of the United States. All we've ever asked of a politician who visited Vietnam was his name, his rank and his serial number."

"But Romney said that he was brainwashed in Saigon two years ago by some very experienced people."

"That's just Republican propaganda. We're willing to open our briefings to the International Red Cross at any time to prove that we treat Republican presidential candidates humanely and in accordance with the articles of war."

"Is it not possible that an overzealous interrogator in Saigon might use methods that the White House does not know about or approve of?"

"There is that possibility, but we've investigated the Romney case thoroughly and both General Westmoreland and former Ambassador Lodge swear they never laid a finger on him."

"But aren't there more subtle ways of brainwashing somebody without touching him?"

"I suppose so. But the Johnson Administration would never stoop to any of these. If we can't win over the opposition with the truth, then we feel we should resign."

"IT'S GOOD TO HEAR you say that," I said.

"Don't forget," the Administration spokesman continued, "both President Johnson and Secretary McNamara have to shave every morning, and they could never look into a mirror and face themselves if they believed someone on their staff had lied to George Romney."

"I never thought of it that way," I admitted.

"Besides, we're trying to set an example for the people of South Vietnam; and if they caught us telling untruths to our own people, it would give them bad habits."

"That makes sense," I said.

"It will be a sorry day in American history if this Administration resorts to falsehoods to get its story across about Vietnam."

"I THINK I'M GOING to cry," I said.

"I must admit that we've been tempted at times," he continued. "But then we thought of the millions and millions of little George Romneys throughout this country who believe in us and in what we are doing, and we decided that no matter what the cost we would stick to the truth."

"What you have just said should be put to music."

"You can't imagine how it hurts the President when somebody like the governor of Michigan, and a Republican to boot, gets on television and says he has been brainwashed. It isn't the personal damage that worries him, nor is it the attack on his veracity. What bothers the President more than anything is that George Romney would introduce politics into a presidential campaign."

I could only add, "I wonder how Romney can shave in the morning?"

Beach Rescue Members Will Be Honored

Four members fo the Marin County Fire Department rescue squad will be honored by the Califronia State Firemen's Association for the hazardous rescue of a 15-year-old Marinwood boy from the rocks at McClure's Beach June 23.

The firemen are Capt. John Damazio, chief of the rescue squad; Marty Medin, Howard Lee and Wesley Campigli.

Racing a rising tide, the four, joined by Coast Guardsmen, carried Gary Hoskins of 18 Mount Ranier Drive 300 feet up a cliff to safety. The youth had fallen while hiking and became unconscious.

The awards, among 25, will be presented to the firemen Sept. 27 at the state firemen's annual conference in Riverside.

COUNTY COMMENT

Free Lunches For Planners Addition To Parkinson's Law

Fusselman

"Zucker Goes To Bat Over Lunch Costs" — "County Planning Director Paul C. Zucker is going to bat for members of his staff to prevent their having to pay more than the normal amount for lunch."

The preceding is the heading and first paragraph of an I-J story on page 11 of the Monday edition. Excerpts of a letter to supervisors from Zucker follows:

"Administrative Regulation No. 1.

"Planning Staff at Commission Luncheons.

"Gentlemen: Sometime ago the county planning commission suggested that, in addition to my joining them for lunch on commission day, one other member of the staff be asked also. I felt this was a good suggestion, and we have routinely had an additional staff member attend the luncheons, and have done this on an alternating basis. This has provided a good opportunity for commissioners to become acquainted with the staff, and likewise for the staff to begin in an informal way to understand and get acquainted with commissioners. Up to now, staff members have been charging this luncheon at $2.50 to the county, and such charges have been approved. The administrator, however has recently issued a regulation which indicates that such luncheons will no longer be approved."

HE WENT ON to relate that lunches generally cost from $3.50 to $4.50 and that he "felt it reasonable for the county to pay $2.50 of this charge." Further along in his letter he said, "I feel this policy creates a difficult situation for the planning staff, and request that the board authorize the administrator to vary from what is evidently now normal county policy for such luncheons."

Well, the board evidently expressed sympathy but no tea. His plea is a 50-50 deal — one for himself and then after that one for the other fellow. Now let's see about this poor little rich boy and his pals.

HE WAS EMPLOYED in January of '66, with a salary of $18,000 a year which has been raised to $19,200. His pals have been relatively well cared for salary-wise. They should all have it so good. The salary for the director position had been $14,400. There hasn't been any evidence so far that his starting salary and the increase have been justified. He has been brazenly dictatorial toward both the commission and the board of supervisors itself.

After a year and three quarters he thinks it is "a good opportunity for the commissioners to become acquainted with the staff and likewise for the staff to begin in an informal way to understand and get acquainted with the commissioners." (Don' spik inglaish?)

This is once again a nonshining example of the Parkinson Law in action. In addition to his inflated salary there was the secretarial cost in his department — the agenda cost at the board level and the cost in the administrator's office. The "Administrative Regulation No. 1" was a 45-line job dictated by John F. Barrows, Administrator Alan Bruce's number one man, who gets $18,000 a year. Then there was the secretarial cost in that office plus cost of reproductions for all departments of the amendments. You name it. They do it.

I THINK IT MAY be well to carry the full text of the regulation next week. It's sort of a gem, too.

The cost of the planning department has increased from $127,174 per year to this year's budget of $325,998 or something like 166 per cent. For what?

Principally conversation.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Always Depend Upon Skill And Never Just Upon Dumb Luck

Fortunately for all of us, the cards are sometimes so well placed that we can't go down no matter how badly we play the hand. Accept these favors gratefully, but don't make a habit of relying on them.

FIRST TRICK

South won the first trick in dummy with the ace of diamonds and led a heart to the ace. On discovering the bad trump break he began the clubs. If West had started with four of the missing five clubs, South would manage to discard a diamond from dummy.

This didn't happen to be South's day for miracles. West ruffed the first club and cashed two diamonds. Down two.

South complainted bitterly about the trump break. If the trumps had divided reasonably he could have drawn trumps and discarded dummy's diamonds on the clubs.

UNBEATABLE

The contract was unbeatable if South had played the hand properly instead of depending on miracles. After winning the first trick in dummy with the ace of diamonds, South should ruff a spade.

Declarer next leads the ace of hearts, discovered the bad news. He leads a low heart, winning a finesse in dummy with the eight, and ruffs a spade with the queen of hearts. Then South leads his last heart to win a finesse in dummy with the ten.

RUNS CLUBS

When declarer leads the king of hearts from dummy to draw Weat's jack, he is out of trumps in his own hand and can discard a diamond. He then runs the five clubs, thus taking the first twelve tricks.

The cards help those who help themselves.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, you hold:
♠—K 10 4
♥—K 10 8 5
♦—A 10 7
♣—Q J 9

ANSWER: Bid one club.

The hand is, of course, too strong to pass. If you open with one heart, you will have no satisfactory rebid over a response of two clubs or two diamonds. If you open with one club, no response can embarrass you.

Used Water Will Be Cleaned, Used Again

CHILDERSBURG, Ala. (UPI) —In a double-barreled effort to preserve wildlife along the Coosa River as well as to conserve water for its newsprint mill here, Kimberly-Clark is accumulating 1.5 billion gallons of waste water in a 370-acre man-made lake.

A $2.5-million water cleaning system will clean and meter back as much as 30 million gallons per day, needed for the production of paper.

ALMANAC

Today is Friday, Sept. 15, the 258th day of 1967 with 107 to follow.

The moon is between its first quarter and full phase. The morning stars are Saturn, Jupiter and Venus. The evening stars are Saturn and Mars.

Born on this day in 1857 was William Howard Taft, the 27th president of the United States.

On this day in history:

In 1935, the Nazi Third Reich started a program of violent religious persecution against the Jews and established the swastika as the national flag.

In 1942, German armies began the siege of Stalingrad in Russia.

In 1963, a bomb was thrown at a Negro church in Birmingham, Ala., killing four Negro girls and setting off rioting. Two Negro boys were shot to death the same day.

In 1966, Gemini II splashed down in the Atlantic 1½ miles from the target ship. The astronauts were in fine shape after record breaking flight.

A thought for the day—British statesman Benjamin Disraeli said: "What we anticipate seldom occurs; what we least expect generally happens."

Couple Sentenced In Marijuana Plot

A convicted child-beater and his common-law wife, who reportedly now have "bad feeling" between them, yesterday were each sentenced to state prison for conspiring to smuggle marijuana into county jail.

However, Judge Samuel W. Gardiner suspended execution of sentences for Eugene O. Bohem and Roberta Marie Buckley, and placed Boehm on five years probation on condition that he serve one year in county jail additional to the year he currently is serving for the child-beating.

WOMAN TO JAIL

Judge Gardiner placed Mrs. Buckley, of Walnut Creek, on three years probation and gave her six months in county jail with credit for the two months she has served awaiting judgment.

The pair was convicted in Marin Superior Court July 25 of the March 2 conspiracy. Mrs. Buckley also was convicted of marijuana possession. Her sentence is for both violations. Boehm is currently serving the year jail term for beating Timothy Wayne Buckley, son of Mrs. Buckley, in August of 1966.

CHILD DIED

The child later died at Marin General Hospital. Boehm, 22, was given a prison term on that conviction, also, but execution was likewise suspended by Judge Joseph G. Wilson. Boehm was placed on five years probation in addition to the year in jail.

He now has two prison terms over his head. The new five year probation is concurrent with the first one, expiring Feb. 19, 1972.

He has served over six months and has the remainder of the year to serve before the new jail term begins.

In pronouncing judgment yesterday, Judge Gardiner said he heard the pair has "bad feeling" between them because Mrs. Buckley reportedly had been "running around with another man and he (Boehm) resents it."

He also asked, "How are we going to keep her away from drugs?"

Her attorney, David J. Costamagna, commented that Mrs. Buckley looks much better since she has been in jail the two months. The "crux" of her problems is her "previous associations," he added.

'ACTS OF CHILD'

Speaking to Boehm, Judge Gardiner earlier said, "His acts are the acts of an irresponsible child." He added that Boehm should get work furlough privileges from jail so he can learn a trade.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Ernest Zunino, who prosecuted, had asked for prison terms for both defendants. Probation officers recommended the three years probation and six-month jail term for Mrs. Buckley, and five years probation and six months in jail for Boehm.

A Leonard Bjorklund Jr. represented Boehm.

School To End Early For Air Force Fete

Public schools in Novato will be dismissed early Monday so students may attend the 20th anniversary of the Air Force celebration at Hamilton Air Force Base, according to James G. Bunker, superintendent.

Dismissal time will be 11:55 a.m. for the first three grades; 12:40 p.m. four the fourth through sixth grades; 1:10 p.m., for the two junior high schools and 12:20 p.m. for the high school.

Mrs. Ghiringhelli Says She Didn't Use Those Words

Mrs. Antoinette Ghiringhelli of 365 Bolinas Road, Fairfax, contended yesterday that she didn't call Councilman Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. an "S.O.B." at Monday's city council session, as reported in yesterday's Independent-Journal.

Mrs. Ghiringhelli admitted calling Arrigoni a liar during a heated verbal exchange but insisted that she didn't use that expression.

Arrigoni said today he couldn't honestly answer whether Mrs. Ghiringhelli used that term or not. "She called me a lot of names and that possibly could have been one of them. I can't comment." He added that what she called him was "nasty" and "not very nice."

Mrs. Ghiringhelli said she called Arrigoni a "damn liar" after he called her a "stupid old lady" and told her to go home.

As for the other expression, she said she "didn't know him well enough to comment on his parentage."

Total accumulative increase in sales tax over the four fiscal years from 1963-64 to 1966-67 increased $888. It was incorrectly reported in the I-J that the increase was $810,888 over the four years.

Support of the city's budget increased from 44.7 per cent in 1966-67 to 49.4 per cent in 1967-68.

A CHILD'S VIEW

Happiness Is A Doctor In Dangling Blue Earrings

NEW YORK (AP) — The blank piece of framed art paper was entitled "My Doctor."

Leslie Garrison, 9, filled it in with a smiling face at the end of a giant syringe. Lori Levine, 6, placed a stick figure in a big pink heart and wrote: "I Love You Dr. Gillman."

These were just two of about 1,000 drawings made by children who were patients of New York area physicians this summer. The Health Insurance Plan of Greater New York wanted to find out whether the youngsters were happy with their physicians.

Michele Savron, 6, of the Bronx, drew a doctor in a white coat with a big smile and dangling blue earrings.

Many of the drawings, sketched in about half of the plan's 31 medical centers, picture doctors as happy, friendly brightly colored figures in neat, detailed offices.

Milton Gold, director of subscriber relations for the health plan, said the art expressed "all the typical attitudes of children" —from love of the doctor to a common fear of needles and, for the 6- to 8-year-olds, a preoccupation with bright examining lights.

Another purpose of the drawings was to keep children waiting for appointments entertained. So they were given colored pencils, crayons and art paper and a chance to win a prize for the "most interesting drawing."

The judge's panel decided it was impossible to pick only a few winners. It awarded 20 first prizes and 70 second prizes.

"We will also give 944 honorable mentions, so there will be no losers," Gold said.

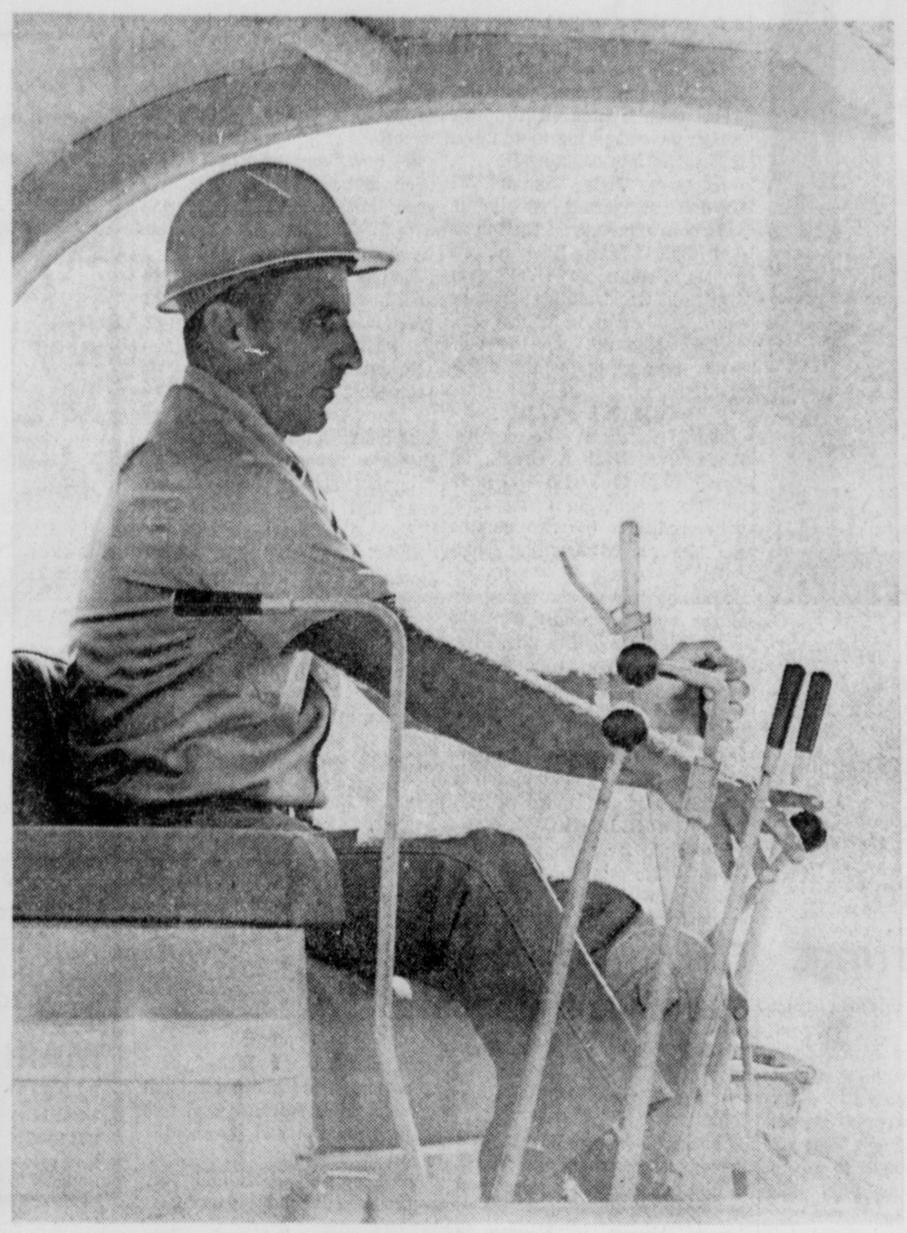
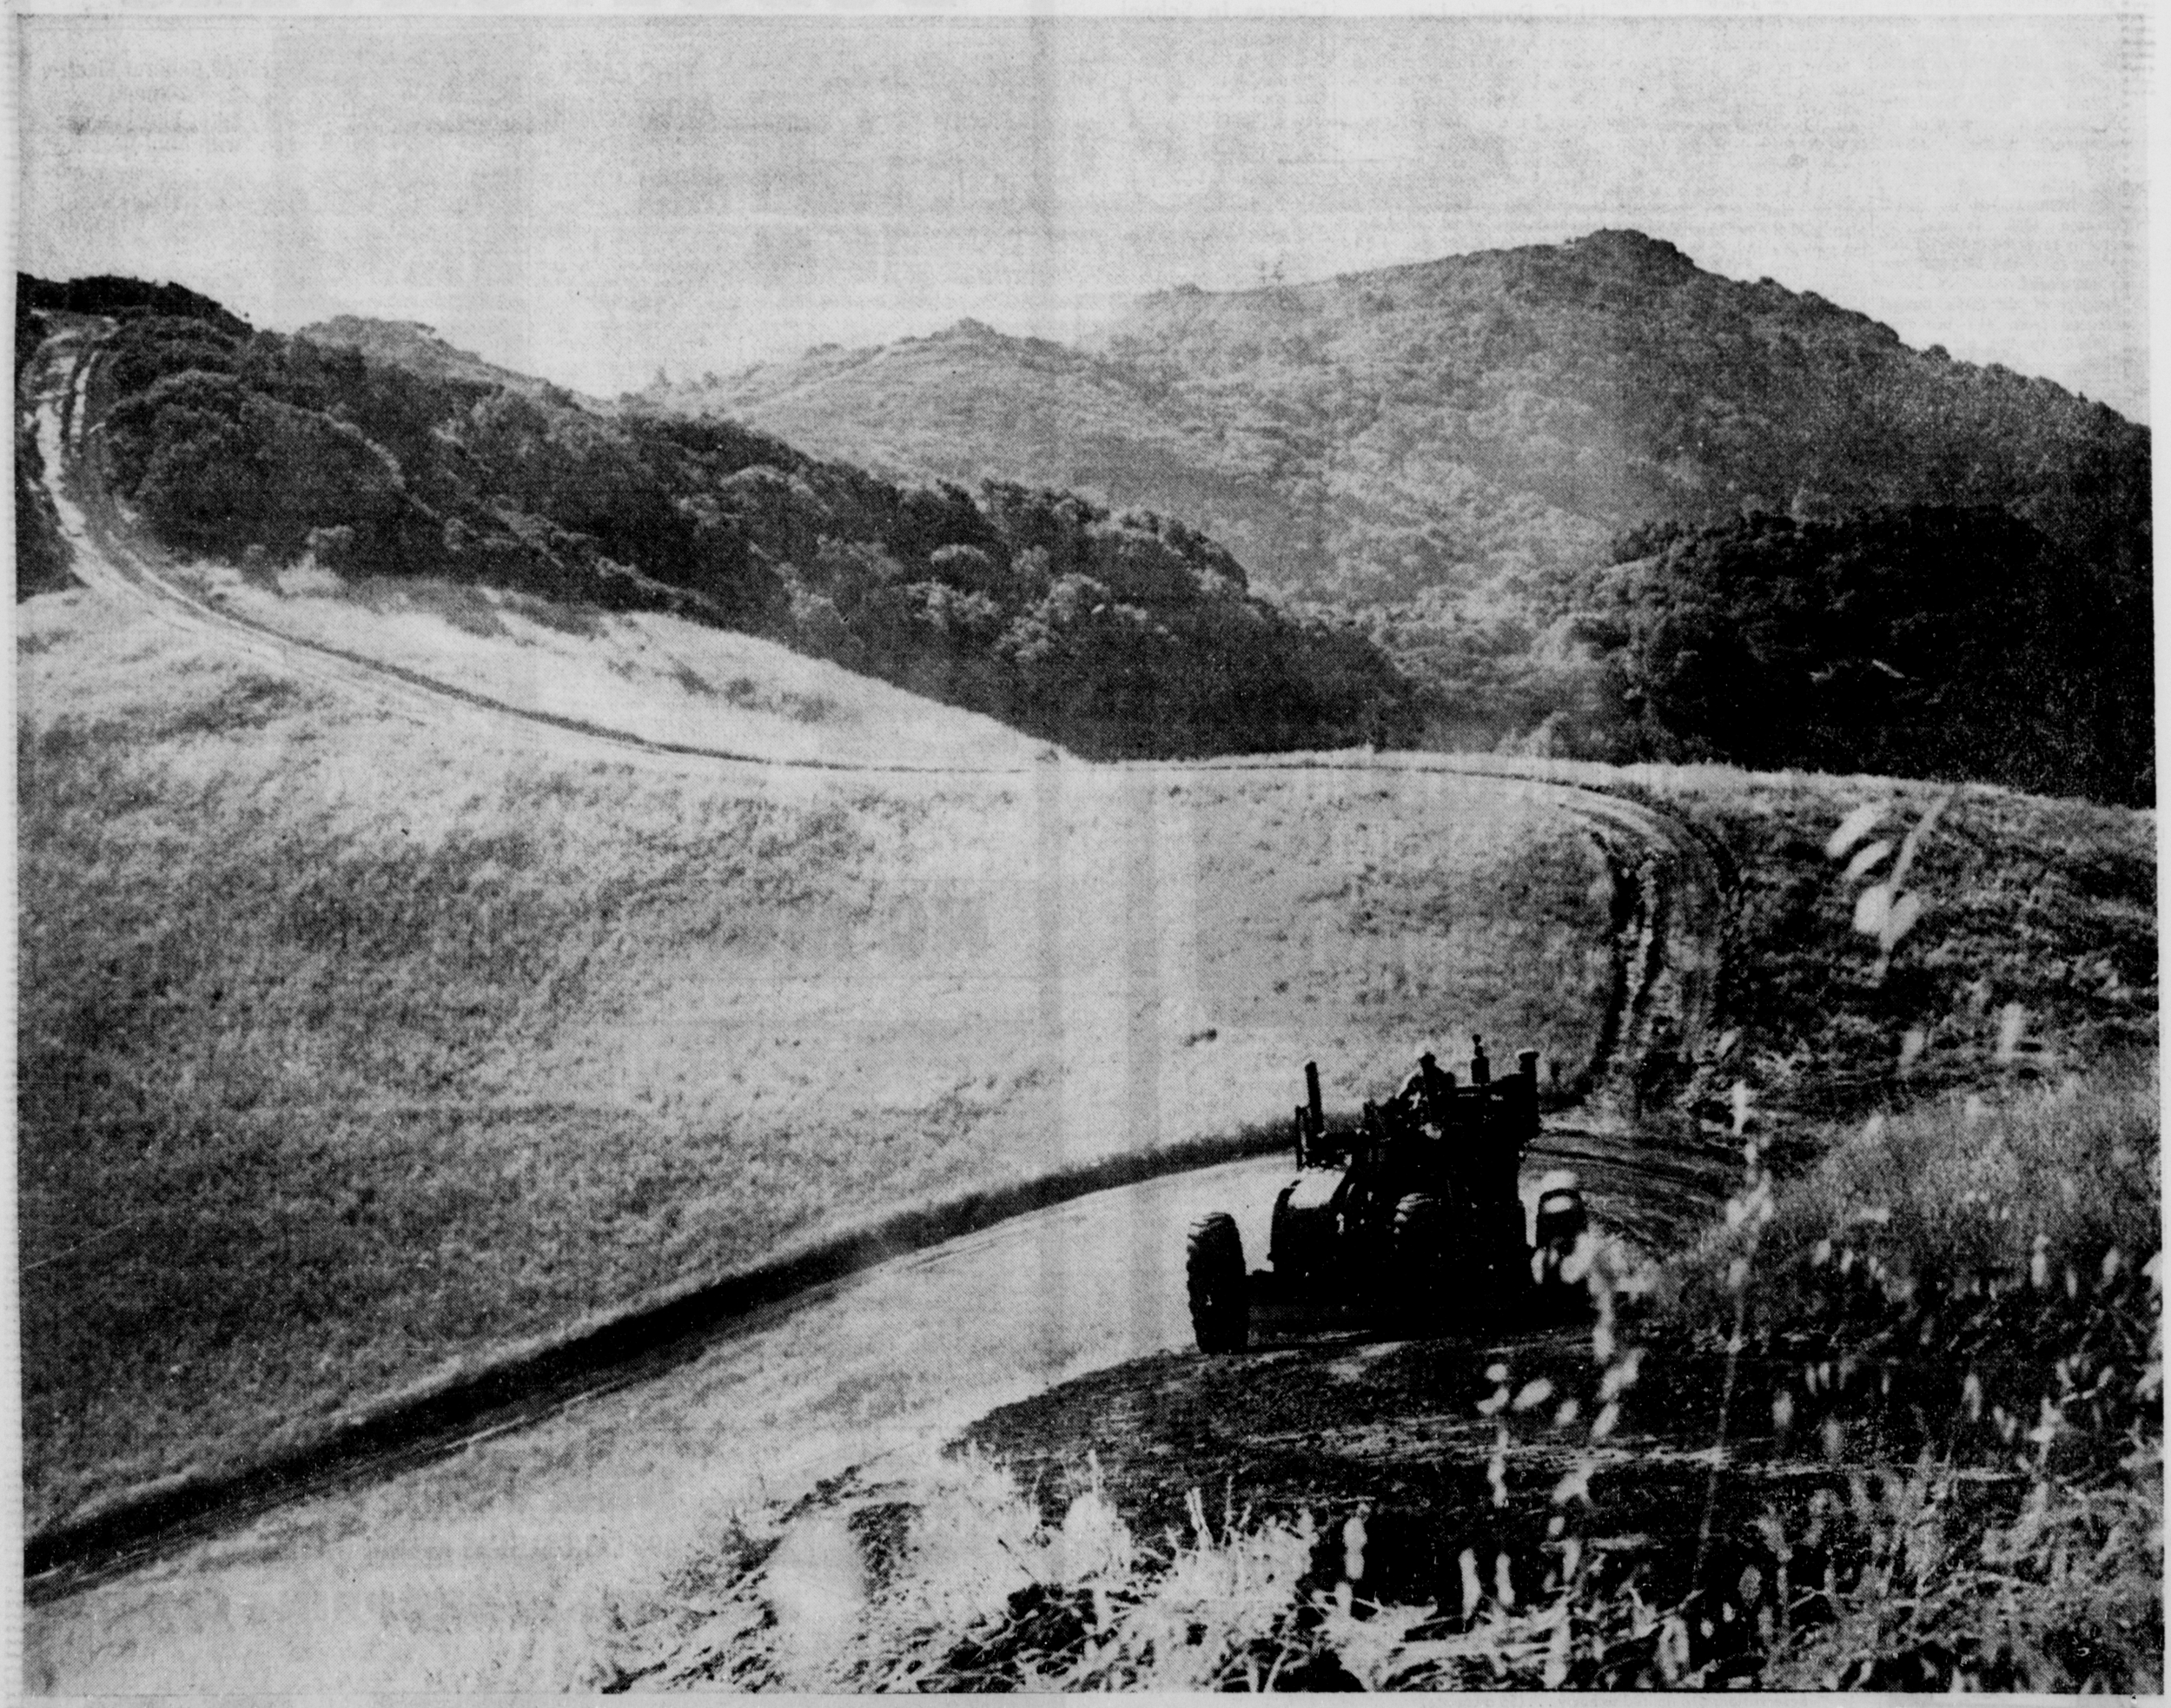
Fire Lanes Through Grass, Woods Will Ring Blazes

MAINTENANCE — Robert Schriver, a member of the Marin County Fire Department, adds grease to one of the giant machines which keep fire trails open in Marin. Roads are graded each year, using grader and bulldozer.



COMPLICATED — Marin County fireman Tony Nunes Jr. has the dusty job of picking the correct handle to move heavy equipment over Marin's hills and through wooded areas. Fire breaks are made on private, state, federal and water district lands.

DRY GRASS — A 10,000 acre blaze in 1945, from Kent Lake to Bolinas, showed the need for more fire breaks. Fire roads are plotted on a map at county fire department headquarters, Woodacre. (Independent-Journal photo)



FIRE GUARD — Near White's Hill, Fairfax, a winding fire break is one of those making up the 377 miles of lanes constructed and maintained over Marin hills by the county fire department.

CAR BUFFS

Concours Approaching

Marin's annual attraction for car buffs and their families, the fifth Concours d'Elegance, will be held Sept. 24 at Peacock Gap Country Club grounds in San Rafael.

Antique, vintage, classic, sports and import cars will be gathered on the lawns at Peacock for judging and the perusal of the public between 11 a.m. and 4 p.m. The event is sponsored each year by the Marin Circle of the Florence Crittenton Home, and all proceeds go to the operation of the home in San Francisco, which also serves Marin.

Innovated last year, again this year the Marin Crittenton Circle is associated with the Concours Council, a group of men representing several Bay Area car clubs, which provides qualified judges for the 13 classes of cars. In the judged classes only pre-war cars will be entered. A limited number of top pre and post-war cars will be invited to join a special interest class for display only.

Co-chairmen of the men's council this year are Lorin Tryon of Piedmont and J. Harvey Newbury of Lafayette.

SPECIAL CLASSES will be held for Rolls-Royce and Packard entries with Rolls-Royce awards being presented by Her Brittanic Majesty's Consul General. Awards will go to first, second and third in class winners and most elegant of show and best restored car.

Honorary judges are Jules Heumann of San Francisco, Strother MacMinn of Los Angeles, Frank Mason of Long Beach and Hans J. Von Wasmer of Tiburon.

During the concours the MacMinn Trophy, won the past year for the most improved concours, will be on display.

ONE OF THE unusual cars shown this year will be the historic "Velo" built in 1893 by Karl Benz as the first car of 27 experimental models he felt was good enough to sell to the public. The car, recovered from oblivion from its resting place in the Saar Valley was restored by Daimler Benz of Stuttgart and in seven months was in good working order and brought to the United States.

The vehicle, which is owned by M. L. Bud Cohn of Los Angeles, is a light two-seater, open and built in the style of contemporary horse-drawn carriages of the 1890s. This world's first production car will be on display with hundreds of outstanding vehicles at the concours on Sept. 24 at Peacock Gap.

HONORARY JUDGES and guests for the concours will be feted at a luncheon at the Peacock Gap Country Club, at noon, hosted by Gardiner Johnson, president of the board of directors, and Dr. Roberta Fenlon, vice president of the board of directors of the Crittenton Home of San Francisco.

Holiday On Island Of Moorea

By MOLLY MARIN

A group of Sausalito Cruising Club members spent an extraordinary near month-long vacation at the Club Mediterranean on the island of Moorea, near Tahiti. Making the trip together were the Newton McCarthys and their children, Diana, 9, and Newton, 16, and the Harry Kramers of Mill Valley, Douglas Bingleys of Fairfax and Lewis Deppmans of San Francisco. They flew from Los Angeles on Aug. 14 to Tahiti and then took the hour and a half boat trip to Moorea, returning on Sept. 6 via the same route. Among activities they enjoyed were swimming, snorkeling and scuba diving, all-day picnics by sailboat to the outer islands, horseback riding and dancing.

MRS. McCARTHY said pictures do not do justice to the place and that the natives are very friendly and happy. Though they do not have many possessions they also seem to have no problems.

EN ROUTE home the party stayed two days at Tahiti and visited the Bill Holloways, former Sausalitans and members of the Sausalito Cruising Club who are living on their boat at Tahiti. So impressed with the report of the vacation was another club member, Bill Dandy of San Rafael, that he is leaving this week for a vacation in the same place.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

When Clinger Strikes Again Aim Her Toward A Single Man

DEAR HELEN:

I'll say nothing against my ex-wife except that we both agreed the marriage was a mistake. Now I am married to a fine and understanding woman. I'm glad she is understanding because it looks like my former wife will be our burden for life. She calls me as early as 6:30 a.m. and as late as midnight, asking questions that she could easily answer herself. Many times they don't even concern the children. She calls my wife during the day. Every time she is faced with the smallest decision, we get a buzz. She even visits us.

We pulled up stakes and moved to another state last year, mostly to get away from her, but she followed. She says "the children insisted." They didn't.

She is not vindictive and she never was in love with me. But she is wholly dependent. She says she has to have a man's help in life. How can we get it across it shouldn't be me?

TRIED ALMOST EVERYTHING

DEAR TAE:

Have you tried aiming her toward a single man who likes dependent women? The only way you'll ring off this clinger is with wedding bells. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Here is my answer to "Heartbroken" whose husband is unfaithful.

What makes a husband cheat in the first place? Not many are natural playboys. I think I might be able to partially answer that question as the man I love is married to another woman.

Crying because he is unfaithful is not the answer. Check yourself over. How many changes have you made since he married you? How much weight have you gained in the wrong places? How many times have you said to yourself, "I'll just slip into these old pants instead of a dress," "He won't notice if last week's ironing isn't done." "Lipstick? Why bother when we don't have company?"

Are your breakfast and lunch dishes still in the sink because the girls stayed too long? If you manage to scoop yourself out of bed in the morning, do you send him off to neat secretaries and smiling waitresses with sleep in your eyes and rollers in you hair, wearing the duster you should have washed last week?

Do you ever let him know you think he's wonderful?

I could go on and on because he tells me these things.

Most women make it easy to be the "last to know" because they won't admit to themselves that they don't continue their appeal after they hook the poor sap. — TRYING NOT TO BE HEARTBROKEN

DEAR TNTBH:

The "poor sap" tells you these things so that he'll feel less guilty, and you believe them for the same reason. Perhaps they're true — but no gentleman would downgrade his wife, even to his girl friend. I'd say you're dating a cad and a chaser. Toss him back! — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Would your kind readers please help cheer my grandmother. Her 87th birthday was on Aug. 27. She has been ill and in a rest home for some time now.

She is: Mrs. M. Elizabeth Edwards, 707 Murchison Rd., Fayetteville, North Carolina, 28803, c/o Glad Haven Convalescent Home.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. She will also welcome your own amusing experiences. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

Stitchery, Crewel Series Will Begin

A series of classes on creative crewel plus an advanced series on stitchery design are being held in various Marin County locations by two well-known, pioneer teachers in the field, Mrs. Janet Van Evera of Belvedere and Mrs. Marje Krejcik of San Francisco.

An eight-week course will begin Sept. 28 from 10 a.m. to noon at the Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross. An afternoon class on stitchery design will be given from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. also on Thursdays, beginning Sept. 28. Those taking the design course must have had the basic course or its equivalent, according to the instructors.

The Terra Linda Community Center will be the setting for another basic class, beginning Wednesday, Sept. 27, from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. That same afternoon, Mrs. Van Evera and Mrs. Krejcik, will conduct a course from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. in the Mill Valley Library Director's room.

The only evening class will be held Monday nights, beginning Sept. 25 from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. in the Del Mar School, Tiburon.

Students attending the general course will be taught more than 30 basic stitches including crewel plus applique and decoupe. The one design course, for advanced students, Mrs. Van Evera points out is, in fact, a basic art course, taught in terms of stitchery. Here, she says, students will learn to create their own designs in class, work them up as home assignments, and bring them to class the following week. Basic concepts of color, line and composition will be covered.

Mrs. Van Evera and Mrs. Krejcik have been credited with re-introducing the combined ancient arts of weaving and stitchery, as well as creative stitchery, into the northern California area. Both are well known artists in the field and have exhibited and won awards in more than 20 United States museums. At present, each has a work in the travelling show, taken from prize winners in last year's American Craftsman's Council regional Crafts shows.

Those interested in attending either of the Marin Art and Garden Center courses should make reservations by calling the Center.

MARIN FILM FARE

Sophisticated 'Guide' On Screen

By LES DARD

There's plenty of room for all ages and tastes in Marin movie houses this weekend:

RAFAEL THEATER

A bright Southern California locale sets the scene for "A Guide For The Married Man."

Walter Matthau plays a happily established husband and father with a roving eye.

Enter friendly neighbor Robert Morse only too thrilled to give lessons on how to succeed at cheating on your wife, and the fun moves into high gear.

101 DRIVE-IN

A lavish and sophisticated battle of wits is the fare of "The Honey Pot," now playing.

Rex Harrison is featured as a fabulously wealthy man whose eccentric whims soon lead to murder and deep suspense. Cliff Robertson and Maggie Smith co-star.

NOVATO THEATER

It might be tough to conjure up visions of Dick Van Dyke and Debbie Reynolds as an everyday California couple, but this they are with great success in "Divorce American Style," now playing.

NORTHGATE THEATER

Now on screen is the futuristic spoof, "The Tenth Victim."

Marcello Mastroianni and Ursula Andress are combatants in this wildly imaginative and original battle.

MOTOR MOVIES

Now on screen is "The Naked Runner," starring Frank Sinatra in a different sort of spy tale.

He plays a long retired espionage agent psychologically maneuvered into killing a defective British scientist before he reaches the East.

"A Man and A Woman" is still with us.

Jean-Louis Trintignant and Anouk Aimee play two cautious, mature people who fall in love — a very simple tale stunningly heightened by fine performances and some of the most beautiful photography and music ever.

TAMALPIAS THEATER

In "The Dirty Dozen," the Army throws maverick major Lee Marvin in with 12 convicted felons and orders him to turn them into a fighting unit for a secret mission during World War II.

Masculine humor, strong characterizations and some pretty brutal violence complete a thoroughly engrossing war film with a top-flight cast.

LARK THEATER

"Up the Down Staircase" is happily still with us here.

Sandy Denis stars as a naive young teacher faced with the harsh realities of a slum high school.

FAIRFAX THEATER

"Doctor Zhivago" has been at this theater for a very long time because it is a very exceptional film.

Omar Sharif takes the title role in a tale that mirrors all the spirit of Russia's painful emergence into the 20th Century. He's splendidly accompanied by Julie Christie, Geraldine Chaplin, Rod Steiger and Tom Courtenay.

SEQUOIA THEATER

"Barefoot in the Park" is one of the most wonderfully warm and funny films you're likely to run across this year.

Jane Fonda and Robert Redford star in a madcap story of young New York marrieds and their many, many problems.

Six Dance Companies On Atheneum Fare

Six dance companies will perform in the second Atheneum production to be held at 3:30 p.m. Sunday at the Mount Tamalpais amphitheater.

The program entitled "Dance of Two Cities" will feature the Shawl-Anderson Modern Dance Company, Summer Dance Theater, Peninsula Ballet Company, American Concert Ballet, Intersection Modern Dancers and Ballet la Jeunesse, from the Bay Area and Los Angeles.

Drawing Show

AN OPEN LETTER

To: Susan McClees, San Rafael

In your letter to the Editor of "I.J.", dated Sept. 12th, 1967 you contend that Prof. Vlado Kolitsch is "uninformed" and that his remarks about Marin Symphony's need for a local and more gifted conductor Hugo Rinaldi "show a superficial assessment of the situation."

Prof. Kolitsch does not do anything superfically. Since you admit that you are a musical amateur, having played in both amateur orchestras sponsored by Marin Symphony Guild, your opinions should be limited to the point of view of an amateur who is satisfied with mediocrity of performance, as most amateurs are. Prof. Kolitsch, however, stands for excellence in music. He does not even have to criticize the quality of performances of Marin Youth Orchestra. All he has to do is to point out the superior quality of other Youth Orchestras in the country, such as Idylwild Youth Symphony of Southern California, whose recent Scandinavian tour was a veritable triumph for the music education of American Youth.

People who know music will then know the difference. To breed mediocrity is a fundamental mistake, when you at the same time can breed excellence. It is therefore better to abolish Marin Youth Orchestra and give talented Marin musicians bigger awards, so that they may study their instruments until they are accomplished enough to become members of Marin Symphony Orchestra. Most of them can get sufficient orchestra experience in their High School Orchestras (San Rafael H.S. Orchestra is in Prof. Kolitsch's judgement superior in quality to Marin Youth Orchestra) so as to qualify them for membership in Marin Symphony. But, first of all, each has to be an accomplished musician, to pass the audition before being admitted.

As to Prof. Kolitsch's "accusations" of Mr. Charles Meacham or Maybelle Speckman of "being guilty" of "conflict of interest," the facts speak for themselves. I would suggest that in the future you stick to facts when you make a public rebuttal of statements based on facts, as in the case of Marin Symphony and Marin Youth Orchestra.

FIREMEN SAVE A HOME

Marinwood firemen pour water on the smouldering roof of the R. M. Adams home, 436 Miller Creek Road, Marinwood. The blaze, at 4 a.m. today, gutted the garage, destroying a boat in it, and burned into the kitchen and a bedroom, doing an estimated $6,000 damage to the building alone. The couple, their two children, David, 6, and Carol, 8 months, and two relatives, fled the house in their night clothes, escaping injury. The family dog, Skippy, perished.

Data Processing For Tomales High

The Northwest Regional Data Processing Service of Santa Rosa last night was awarded a contract to handle student records at Tomales High School by the Tomales Joint Union High School board.

The cost to the district will be $3.75 for the first year and $3 per year thereafter per student. There are 205 students enrolled in the school this year, said Supt. Anthony Matulich.

This is the first year that the district will have data processing.

Matulich was authorized to advertise for bids for a 76-passenger bus, to be opened at 8 p.m., Oct. 26.

The board named three department heads: Kathryn Lawson, English; James Kovlich, physical education, and Samuel Moscovoy, buildings, grounds and transportation.

The board accepted the resignation of Carl Anaclerio, physical education and shop teacher, and named Christopher Bratt to fill that position at $7,980.

Deputies Take In Possible Tripper

A 22-year-old Forest Knolls man, suspected of being on an LSD trip, was sent to Napa State Hospital for observation yesterday after being found by sheriff's deputies at the Alto Wye screaming, "I just want to have a baby."

A passing motorist notified Deputy John O. Goff at 10:30 p.m. that a shirtless man was screaming and pounding on a road sign at the Alto Wye.

Goff and two other deputies found Brian Raymond Ghelardi, 22, of Forest Knolls. As they approached, he shouted "Venus," then "I just want to have a baby."

Goff described him as a "hippie type" and said he suspected Ghelardi had taken LSD.

Innocent Plea To Stabbing

A 23-year-old Sausalito man pleaded innocent and innocent by reason of insanity in San Francisco yesterday to a charge of stabbing to death John Carter, 25.

Eric Frank Dahlstrom of 70 Monte Mar Drive entered the plea before Superior Court Judge Francis McCarthy.

Dahlstrom, a motorcycle racer, was charged with killing Carter in a San Francisco hippie district apartment Aug. 1 and cutting off the victim's right arm. He was arrested several days later near Sebastopol, driving a car which contained Carter's arm.

At the time of his arrest, officers quoted Dahlstrom as saying Carter had sold him bad LSD.

McCarthy aoppinted two psychiatrists to examine Dahlstrom.

The day after Dahlstrom's arrest, the body of William E. (Superspade) Thomas, 26, a known trafficker of drugs and acquaintance of Carter, was found on a rubbish dump near the Point Reyes Coast Guard station. The murder has not been solved.

Six More Burglaries Probed By Officers

Six burglaries were reported today by sheriff's officers.

David Stevens Stratton, 375 Tennessee Avenue, Tamalpais Valley, told deputies Wednesday someone took items worth $50 after entering his unlocked front door. Loot included garden tools and two sport shirts.

Egger and Sons Nurseries, 700 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Greenbrae, reported a rear door glass was broken for entry, but nothing was believed taken.

Boyd Stewart, of Stewart Ranch near Marshall, reported two electric motors and tools worth $70 were taken from two unlocked barns.

A painting owned by John C. Fitzmaurice, 226 Julia Avenue, Tamalpais Valley, was taken from his unlocked garage, officers said. No value was given.

Gary Dennis Jones of Tiburon Boulevard, East Alto, told deputies yesterday that burglars removed a window screen of his apartment, then ranscaked cabinets inside. Nothing was taken.

Burglars forced a bathroom window screen for entry of the home of Daniel E. Costello, 704 Butternut Drive, Terra Linda. A telephone was taken from a bedroom.

World Federalist Group Plans Benefit

Marin members of United World Federalists will hold a benefit swimming, sauna, dinner and dancing party at 6:30 p.m. Sept. 23 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Watkin on Acorn Way, Kentfield.

Funds will be used to pay the expenses of a college student to direct activities of the student federalists organization in Marin.

Second Deck Branded 'Foolhardy' By San Francisco Planning Chief

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

SAN FRANCISCO — Construction of a second deck on the Golden Gate Bridge "would be foolhardy," San Francisco Planning Director Allan B. Jacobs yesterday told this city's supervisors.

He argued before a meeting of the supervisors' streets and transporatation committee that a second deck would solve "neither the auto problem nor the transit problem."

Until Marin's population is large enough for a rail rapid transit system, Jacobs said, "I believe that a bus rapid (transit) system and high-speed ferries should be able to do the job.

'LIKE HORATIUS'

"We strongly suspect that San Franciscans cannot forever stand like Horatius at the bridge and say ,"No more autos — ever!" he told supervisors. "With the bus rapid and ferries in operation — hopefully in about five years' time or less — we could have sufficient time to develop plans on our own terms for the high-capacity limited-access roads which might be needed in San Francisco to absorb the increased vehicular traffic which a second deck open to all vehicles would bring into the city."

Four additional lanes, "which are now non-existent," probably would be required to carry this extra traffic load, he said.

To try to stretch present streets to accommodate second deck traffic, Jacobs said, "would tear hell out of part of San Francisco now, and then we'd have to build a new high-capacity, limited access route in the future as well."

BUSES URGED

Jacobs recommended "that the basic policy of San Francisco" be to provide bus service which could complete with autos "as quickly as possible." He also urged the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District amend its $265,000 study of a second deck to include studies of a bus rapid transit tunnel in San Francisco, a second deck on the bridge for buses only, high-speed ferries and "specific solutions" to vehicular problems in the city and Marin.

A ferry system could cost up to $40 million, Jacobs said, "a small fraction of the $270 million which is the estimated cost of a second deck, plus approaches, plus freeways.

"If for any reason, there is construction of a second deck," he declared, "such construction must be part and parcel of a program for high-capacity limited access routes in San Francisco and Marin which must be designed to meet local standards acceptable to the city."

"All alternatives," Jacobs concluded, "require a multi-agency approach, and a structure to do this should be set up now."

FERRY BACKERS

Jacobs' enthusiasm for ferries was seconded by Marin Supervisor Thomas T. Storer and Harlan Soeten of Mill Valley, curator of the Maritime Museum and proponent of a "comfortable, efficient mass-transit ferry system."

A handful of persons in the audience of 25 also spoke in favor of ferries, including Mrs. Frieda Klussman, savior of the cable cars.

"Ferries would assist in only a very small amount," testified bridge district director Ben K. Lerer.

'NOT DEDICATED'

"We're not dedicated to a second deck," Lerer insisted, "but to date there hasn't been any substitute."

The supervisors' committee took no action, but chairman John A. Ertola said it would report its recommendation to the full board by Sept. 28.

Motions before the committee include one by Supervisor William C. Blake that a special district be formed to provide a ferry system to Marin. Also favoring ferries, Supervisor Leo McCarthy urged supervisors to "take all steps necessary" to set up a ferry system, and that "all available funds, including Golden Gate Bridge tolls monies," be made available for a ferry and bus system.

Prison-Bound Inmate Flees; Captured

A 24-year-old San Rafael man fled two sheriff's bailiffs at the courthouse today, minutes after being sentenced to state prison.

Robert Peter Sundberg, of the Carmel Hotel was captured after a brief chase by one of the bailiffs and two Novato police officers who were in the courthouse to testify in another trial.

Sundberg was given one to 10 years in prison by Judge Samuel W. Gardiner for the Feb. screwdriver attack on San Rafael Patrolman Robert A. Larrison.

He was being returned to jail by bailiffs Arthur Wiggins and Nick Roselli about 9:30 a.m., officers said, when he broke and ran down the second-story corridor.

Wiggins joined by the two Novato policemen, Sgt. William M. Cann and Patrolman C. Schanaker, gave chase out the courthouse front door onto Fifth Avenue.

They caught Sundberg about a block away, officers said, and rebooked him in county jail for a possible new charge of escape.

College Parking Lot Bids Opened

The William K. McLellan Co. of San Rafael was low bidder of three Wednesday to pave four parking lots at the College of Marin.

McLellan bid $107,545, or $61,490 for three lots. The high bidder was E. A. Forde Co. of Corte Madera at $135,205, or $89,805 for three lots.

The work was estimated to cost $70,000. The parking lots are at Laurel Avenue, on College Avenue, an addition to the physical education parking lot and a new lot next to the new fine arts building.

Three companies bid on duplicating equipment. Addressograph Multigraph Corp. of San Francisco bid $52,163.54 on seven items, A. B. Dick Co. of San Francisco bid $22,957.25 on three items and Itek Business Products bid $17,157 on three items.

A para-rescue display from the Presidio will be presented at Memorial Park from 3:30 to 10:30 p.m. Friday, and the San Anselmo Barber Shop Quartet will perform Friday at 7:30 p.m. in front of city hall.

An antique auto parade is scheduled for Saturday afternoon and barbecue dinners will be served at the American Legion Hall Saturday and Sunday nights.

San Anselmo's police and fire departments will compete in a softball game at 1 p.m. Sunday.

The celebration will include an amateur photography contest sponsored by the chamber of commerce, a litter letter-writing contest for adults sponsored by the anniversary committee and an essay contest for fifth through eighth grade students of the San Anselmo School District on the topic, "What San Anselmo Means to Me." A gold watch and two silver watches will be awarded the winners.

Airport Chief Oral Board Set

Three members have been chosen to serve on the oral board to examine candidates for manager of Marin County Airport, County Personnel Director Robert D. Elliott announced yesterday.

The three are Joseph W. Wright, chairman of the Marin Aviation Commission; William Partain, director of the Napa County Airport; and Marvin Scott of Concord, aviation director for the Contra Costa County Airport.

Elliott and Tris M. Coffin, vice chairman of the Marin Aviation Commission will pre-screen the 40 applicants to select the best qualified to appear before the oral board.

The oral examination is tentatively set for Monday, Sept. 25, at the Civic Center. County Public Works Director Donald R. Frost will make the final selection.

Salary for the airport manager will range between $753 and $924 per month.

GLENWOOD FOREST

Perhaps we are a bit premature, but we have had so many inquiries from people expressing an interest in this beautiful quiet and secluded area, that we have opened a temporary office, and are now taking reservations on the limited number of breathtaking view sites and secluded sites which are encompassed by trees. The new model homes are not built, and the streets are not paved, but the sites are ready. Wear your old clothes because it is dusty. We are sure that when you see this exciting setting, which we feel is outstanding and cannot be duplicated, you will be pleasantly surprised.

Our salesmen will be on the site all day Saturday, Sunday, Sept. 15th & 16th. Sat. & Sun. hrs. 9-10. During the following week by appointment. The phone at the site is 454-3768 or call 479-9611 for further information.

Race Rioters Developing Own Ritual?

CHICAGO (SS) — Racial violence in U.S. cities could develop its own ritual — something like labor negotiations — by next summer, a psychologist who has studied the problem predicts. He says that might help reduce the amount of damage done.

Dr. John P. Spiegel of Brandies University, told a panel at the American Political Science Association convention here recently that civil rights leaders should soon be able to "issue a strike call" threatening demonstrations and violence if specific demands aren't met.

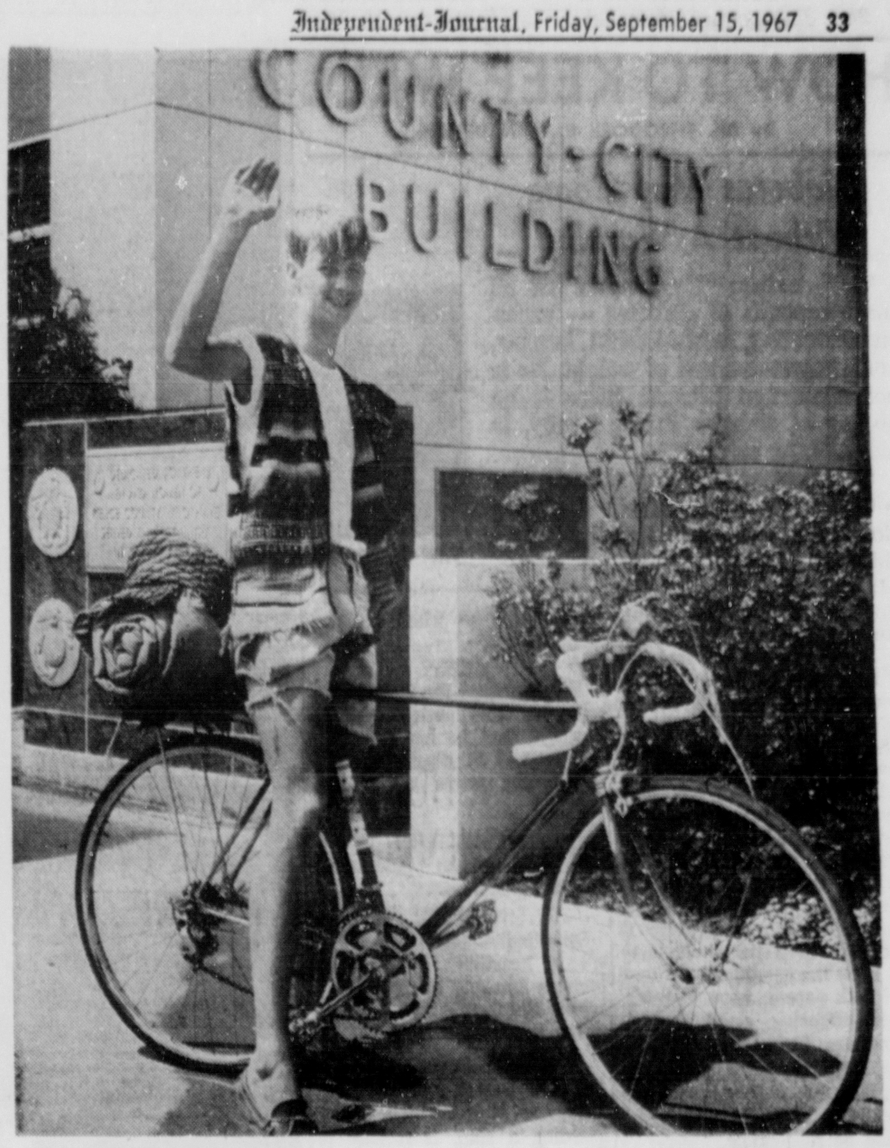
He said that such a ritual pattern of demands, backed up by wide support in the ghetto, would give city administrations more time to cool a threatened riot.

Dr. Spiegel said studies of six American cities, using hour-long questionnaires and face to face interviews with rioters, policemen and mayors indicate that riots take place in four stages. He said the response of the police and administration should vary depending on the stage the riot is in.

The first stage is an incident that can set off the violence, such as the killing of a fugitive or an unpopular arrest. This is followed by a "confrontation period," during which city officials could act by promising a quick investigation or making other calming moves.

If the confrontation period passes without action, there follows what Dr. Spiegel calls a "Roman holiday" phase in which looting and burning take place, mostly carried out by children, with few people being hurt.

In this phase, he says ,police often either take no action at all, or over-react. If they start shooting and beating suspects, the riot can move into the fourth stage, which he calls simply war. It is in this stage that most people get hurt or killed. Most of the shooting is done by police and National Guard units, he said, though there is return fire by snipers.



I MADE IT — Spencer Sias of San Anselmo waves triumphantly upon his arrival in Tacoma, Wash., after proving he could support himself away from home. He made the trip in 18 days, arriving with more money than when he began.

Teen-Ager Solves Secret Desire: Takes Long, Long Bicycle Ride

By JIM BREWER

For a reason not entirely understood even by himself, 17-year-old Spencer Sias has always had a secret urge to run away from home.

But for all his "trying experiences during my adolescent development," the slender Drake High School senior said, "I just never got mad enough."

Late last June however, Spencer decided, "it was time to prove I could support myself." Capitalizing on an invitation to visit his uncle in Tacoma, Wash., Spencer undertook to fulfill his chilhood urge and at the same time demonstrate his independence.

On July 2, starting with just $34 in his pocket and a second-hand bicycle, Spencer left his home at 160 Sturdivant Avenue, San Anselmo, to peddle and work his way up the coast to his uncle's home.

By sleeping near the highways or in private dwellings if someone offered, and by working in cafes and cleaning garages, Spencer said he accomplished his feat with little difficulty.

Eighteen days and several odd jobs later, he arrived triumphantly in Tacoma — $1.18 richer than when he left.

"I always knew I would make it," the shaggy-haired youth declared. "I only had one scary experience. That was when the wind blew my bike over while I was in Ophir, Ore., and smashed the gear changer. I had to sweep out a bicycle shop to get it fixed."

Spencer said his long hair got him into trouble about three-fourths of the way there. "No one would give me a job," he said. "I had to tell the situation to a barber. He was real nice and cut it for free.

"I learned a lot on the trip," he asserted. "I was amazed by people's kindness. Besides gaining a lot of self-confidence, the trip reconfirmed my faith in human nature.

Sias — who felt the bike ride north was "my triumph" — hitch-hiked back, arriving home with $20 more than when he left.

"Everyone thought I was crazy when I started," he continued. "My parents (Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Sais) wanted to be practical and organize things for me.

"But practical people bug me. Practicality isn't the absolute answer to everything, you know. I mean, if you're going to run away, you wouldn't plan ahead."

Surveyor 5's Spot On Moon

PASADENA (UPI) — America's Surveyor 5 spacecraft landed on the rim of a moon crater 5 feet deep and 30 feet wide and is resting at a 20 degree angle, scientists said yesterday.

"We're sitting on the inside wall of this crater fairly near the top of it," a spokesman for the California Institute of Technology's Jet Propulsion Laboratory (JPL) said.

Confirmation of the spacecraft's position came after a detailed study of some of the 3,277 television pictures Surveyor 5 has transmitted to earth since it landed on the moon last Sunday.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Diabetes May Come Without A Warning

VAN DELLEN

L. F. writes: "My brother has all the symptoms of diabetes — excessive urination, morbid thirst, hunger, and progressive loss of weight. He is not concerned because there is no history of diabetes in the family. Is his thinking correct?"

Of course not, even though diabetes is hereditary, family histories along this line are not always reliable.

DIABETES MAY develop at any age. Many of the victims are over 50 when the condition is noted initially but had any of them died earlier in life, the disorder would not have been detected.

Some of my patients developed the disease after their 80th birthday. What has been said applies also to other hereditary disorders.

Diabetes per se is not inherited; predisposition to the disease runs in families. Usually one parent of the diabetic is a carrier even though he may not have the condition.

If both parents have diabetes, their offspring could develop symptoms during their lifetime.

IF ONE parent is a diabetic and the other a carrier, chances are that half their children would be susceptible.

If both are carriers who do not have the disease, one-fourth of their children are susceptible. Fifty per cent of identical twins with a family history of diabetes usually develop the condition. Only 3 per cent of fraternal twins follow suit.

Insulin has allowed the younger diabetic to live long enough to marry and have a family. This means more diabetics.

IN ADDITION people are living longer, especially women, among whom the incidence is highest.

Earlier detection via urinalysis is a determinant in the increased incidence. With proper diet, insulin, and other antidiabetic drugs, these individuals can live a normal existence.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

NEEDS HELP

Mrs. J. writes: I'm troubled with colitis and my doctor says X-ray show a mental reaction but he did not explain any further. Should I go to another doctor or have another X-ray as I'm still not feeling well?

REPLY

Yes, because you will get along better with a physician in whom you have confidence.

CORONARY

D. V. E. writes: A man of 50 is recovering from a heart attack. Can he return to his old job — typing and stenography — when his rest period is up?

REPLY

Yes, provided the boss is considerate. This patient can be thankful that he has an office job instead of digging ditches or hurling rivets on a skyscraper.

HEARTBURN

K. D. C. writes: Could smoking cause heartburn?

REPLY

Some individuals are bothered with heartburn, presumably because smoking increases acidity and the churning motions of the stomach.

DRINK ON BOARD

D. Z. writes: If a person takes a motion sickness pill before boarding a ship, is it safe to take a cocktail after the voyage starts?

REPLY

Yes.

INFLAMED STOMACH

D. J. R. writes: What is the best diet for gastritis?

REPLY

The ulcer diet is the easiest on the stomach.

IDEAL CLIMES

K. Z. writes: What is considered the healthiest place in the United States?

REPLY

Cooler regions are healthier, even though the incidence of colds and pneumonia may be higher. Every climate has its good and bad features but I'm always surprised to find how busy physicians are in ideal climates. Mortality statistics are not always reliable because the elderly and those with heart trouble or lung diseases often move to areas where there is more sunshine and drier air. The death rate among this group is obviously higher.

DRUG REACTION

T.M. writes: Why do I become drowsy when I take allergy pills?

REPLY

Drowsiness is one of the unpleasant side effects of the antihistimine products. Many of the advertised sleeping pills contain this chemical and the manufacturers utilize this side effect as the reason why the drug is beneficial.

LAW IN ACTION

From the State Bar Of California

Citizen's Right To Be Silent

The Constitution says the accused may remain silent. At his trial he need not testify against himself. No district attorney can call him to the stand and question him.

For years the district attorney or the judge could comment on the accused's failure to testify. When a prosecutor offered evidence against a defendant, the judge himself could tell the jury to take into account the defendant's failure to take the stand and reply.

The Supreme Court has recently ruled that such comment violated the rule against self incrimination. There are many reasons besides guilt for a person not to testify. He may be very nervous. He may have a hard time explaining suspicious, but really innocent facts.

He may speak poorly. He may be a poor witness. The court, therefore, said that no judge could comment on person's failure to testify. He may not translate an accused's silence into evidence. This would violate the defendant's constitutional right.

Under our law the prosecution must prove its case against the accused beyond a reasonable doubt and to a moral certainty. If the district attorney cannot present such a case, the defendant may go free. The defendant has no duty to prove the case against himself by testifying.

Some special laws call upon you to keep records. For example, taxpayers must keep business records which the government can examine even though they are incriminating.

Those caught with narcotics face conviction unless they can explain that they are rightfully in possession of such items. In some cases, possession alone is a crime.

In another recent case Zeke Moonshine was caught at the site of an illegal liquor still. A federal law says that the court can convict a person in Zeke's position unless he explains his presence. Zeke failed to do this and was convicted. The Supreme Court upheld his conviction.

The law protects one's right to remain silent when the police question him as well as at his trial. The police must warn suspects that they can remain silent, and also that they can have an attorney present to advise them.

Failure to inform the accused of these things can block the use of confessions or incriminating statements at the trial.

Note: California lawyers offer this column so you may know about our laws.

How to keep in the swim

...and keep your interests very much afloat

It's pretty obvious we're telling you that the I-J will keep you "up," keep your mind buoyant, keep you in the swim of affairs.

But maybe it's NOT so obvious that your newspaper can do so many things IN ONE ISSUE that no other medium of communication can approach.

Think about it: immediate news of the entire world . . . today's happenings for tonight's reading. We take you to Viet Nam, to Washington . . . to the Giants game wherever they play. To city hall, to the top food specials at your market. To the courts, to auto row; we run off today's stocks for you, show you the latest in fashions, and tell you what's on TV.

But we don't just flash the news; we report it, check on it, give you details that give you full perspective and thorough information. Sports, women's affairs, financial news, the latest in education, politics, science, health, menus, entertainment — the list is never-ending.

Look what it does for you: opens your mind; gives you a sense of belonging to your community; improves your judgment on public affairs. Yes, and through the ads, leads you to exciting buys and welcome savings.

Night after night, more than 40,000 Marin families plunge in to the Independent-Journal — and come up better informed. Great way to stay in the swim!

School Bonds Boosters Seek Cash For Drive

A citizen committee, urging approval of bond issues in the Oct. 24 election in the San Rafael elementary and high school districts, is seeking $2,000 in donations to finance its campaign.

The committee headed by Wayne H. White, 208 Mark Twain Avenue, San Rafael, vice chairman H. Dieter Schugt, 332 Prospect Drive, and finance chairman John T. Schmitz, 43 Castlewood Drive, will use the funds for informational work, Schmitz said.

Voters will decide Oct. 24 whether to approve a $3,100,000 issue for the elementary school district for construction of two schools, work on some existing classrooms and school site acquisition.

In the high school district, the proposition is divided into two parts, one a proposal for $2 million in bonds for additions to Terra Linda High School, renovation of San Rafael High School and purchase of a site for a third school.

The second proposal is for $5,500,000 to construct a new high school by 1972.

TV REVIEW

Burr Has A Rough Road Ahead

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Raymond Burr, who became a television institution as "Perry Mason," returned to video last night in a new series, NBC-TV's "Ironside," in which he plays a wheelchair-ridden detective.

In short, he has switched from the defense to the prosecution. And the show itself is a link in the new chain of television series in which police officers and-or detectives are the heroes. Among these are "The Felony Squad," "Dragnet," "N.Y.P.D.," (New York police department), "Mannix" (which debuts Saturday) and, of course, "Ironside." Just several years ago, defenders had the upper hand on police and prosecutors as video heroes.

"Ironside" is a key series in NBC-TV's hopes for this season. It follows "Daniel Boone" and precedes "Dragnet" and Dean Martin in the network's Thursday night lineup. The other three series have done well in the ratings in the past, and if "Ironside" catches on, NBC-TV will have a potent lineup for the night. Its opposition is "Bewitched" and "That Girl" on ABC-TV, and "Cimmaron Strip" and the Thursday night movie on CBS-TV.

There is no question that NBC-TV has its chips riding on Burr personally, in short on his individual appeal, which is considerable, especially because of his splendidly attractive image as Perry Mason.

Again in the premiere last night, in which Burr solved a racetrack robbery, the story and the overall production were hardly much more than run-of-the-mill, and the burden again was placed squarely on the star's personal pull. If he can indeed carry the show through on his shoulders, it will be an impressive tribute to the public's feeling for him, and NBC-TV future contract negotiators will find out about that.

"Perry Mason" had a definite senss of style, a wealth of Erle Stanley Gardner material to draw on—with its tough, expert story conception—and a first-rate cast that the public found to be constantly good company: the fictional names, of course, were Della Street, Paul Drake and Hamilton Burger, the perennial loser. You can still find them carrying on in local station reruns.

Burr's new coterie—a young detective, a policewoman and a Negro aide-companion—will be hard-pressed to match the appeal of his former group, whose personal style seems at this point superior.

The character that Burr plays is somewhat different from Mason. As the lawyer-defender, he was tough on cross-examination but rather easy-going, humorous fellow with his staff. In "Ironside," he is a crusty, although secretly soft-hearted, gent who wastes little time in bawling out his companions for their incompetency, and sometimes just because it is his nature. He reminds one a bit of Dr. Gillespie as played by Lionel Barrymore in the old "Dr. Kildare" movies—not in looks, but in attitude.

Aussies Take Day Off In Yacht Series

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP)—The skipper of the Australian challenger Dame Pattie thinks he knows the reason why his craft is trailing American defender Intrepid 0-3 in the best-of-7 series between the 12-meter yachts for the America's Cup.

But it'll take more than a one-day respite to do anything about it.

"Hull design may be the big factor," Jock Sturrock, Dame Pattie's skipper, said while pondering what else to do about trying to catch Intrepid, a remarkably well-rounded boat that has lost only one race in her young life.

Re-designing the hull, of course, takes considerable time. So, the best Sturrock could do was check his yacht preparatory to the fourth race tomorrow.

Dame Pattie decided to raise the blue and white checkered flag calling for no race today immediately after crossing the finish line yesterday well behind the pug-nosed Intrepid for the third straight day.

Intrepid's time margin of victory was 4 minutes, 41 seconds. She won the first race by 5:58 and the second by 3:36.

Bus Mosbacher, the 46-year-old skipper from White Plains, N.Y., provided another masterful performance in winning the third race with his 64-foot American defender in the competition between the sleek, expensive crafts in Rhode Island Sound.

Not even a detour towards a capsized boat that cost her about 20 seconds could prevent Intrepid from streaking away from the blue-hulled, 65-feet challenger. She won by more than one-half mile.

No boat ever has been able to make up an 0-3 deficit in this storied competition for the old mug, held by the United States for 116 years.

The Dame's inability to stand up in a breeze of wind was a vital factor in yesterday's race. Intrepid, on the other hand, stood up straighter and shouldered through the building seas.

"I think I would have to say the difference was mostly in the hull design for this type of weather," Sturrock explained. We could do with some 10 to 12 knots breezes Saturday."

Sturrock said he signaled for a day off because "we heard a weather forecast of 20 to 25 knots and we have had enough of that."

HURRICANE THREATENS TO DELAY 'CUP' RACE

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — Hurricane Doria may force a one-day and possibly two-day postponement of the fourth race in the best-of-seven series between defender Intrepid and the Australian Dame Pattie for yachting's America's Cup.

The race now is scheduled for tomorrrow.

Intrepid, runaway winner of the first three races, needs only one more victory to retain the Cup, held by the United States for 116 years.

Voice Of Kezar Picks

49ers To Win Division

VOICE SPEAKS — Pardon his chauvanism, but David Eric Scofield of Larkspur says the San Francisco 49ers will win the Coastal Division of the National Football League.

Anyone who has watched the bumbling 49ers in their pre-season schedule will commit Mr. Scofield to the Funny Farm. (Look out, Dave, the little men in white suits will be chasing you with butterfuly nets.)

BUT BEFORE you dismiss Scofield as some kind of a nut, let me tell you a little about him. Sure, as "Voice of Kezar" who has announced all but one of the 49er home games since their inception in 1946, Dave can be accused of chauvanism in favoring San Francisco, as ridiculous as it may seem.

But, in analyzing pro football talent he is numero uno. For example, last year at this time I asked him to predict the NFL race and he did so with uncanny accuracy, as it turned out. The final standings in December were virtually the same as he had forecast in September.

A Stunning Forecast By Dave

With the realigned NFL starting this weekend, I asked Dave his 1967 predictions and he stunned me with his 49er forecast as No. 1, Los Angeles No. 2, Baltimore No. 3 and Atlanta No. 4.

"THE 49ERS ARE a better club than they've shown in exhibitions," he apologized in that stentorian tone so familiar to Kezar fans. "Now that Tittle is back helping from the pressbox, Brodie should settle down." (He referred to assistant coach Y. A. Tittle who joined the team late and who masterminds the 49er offense for quarterback John Brodie.)

"And don't forget that Ken Willard will be back at fullback after missing four games. Another factor will be the development of Stan Hindman at defensive end. He's a very key man on defense.

"And, in spite of the poor exhibition season, I still think our offensive line is one of the best in the league."

A 9-5 Record May Win It

Scofield sees a "very tight race in the Coastal Division and a 9-5 record might win it. I think we (the 49ers) will split our two games with the Rams and Colts and beat Atlanta twice in our own division. In inter-division play we should beat the Vikings, Bears, Lions, Dallas and New Orleans. The Lions and Dallas will be tough, I grant you, but don't forget, we're playing them at home to the 49ers' advantage.

"I THINK WE'LL lose to Green Bay, Washington, Philadelphia and once each to the Rams and Colts. That's a 9-5 record. We could, however, beat Washington or Philadelphia or both and that would cinch it for us."

Scofield, however, writes a sad ending to this story. He picks the mighty Packers to again pick up all the marbles. He sees them sweeping to the Central Division crown and then whipping the 49ers in the Western Conference playoff.

AFTER PHILADELPHIA of the Capitol Division beats Cleveland of the Century Division in their Eastern Conference playoff, Swami Scofield sees Green Bay whipping Philadelphia for the NFL championship.

Here Are Preseason Selections

Here's the way the Voice sees the races:

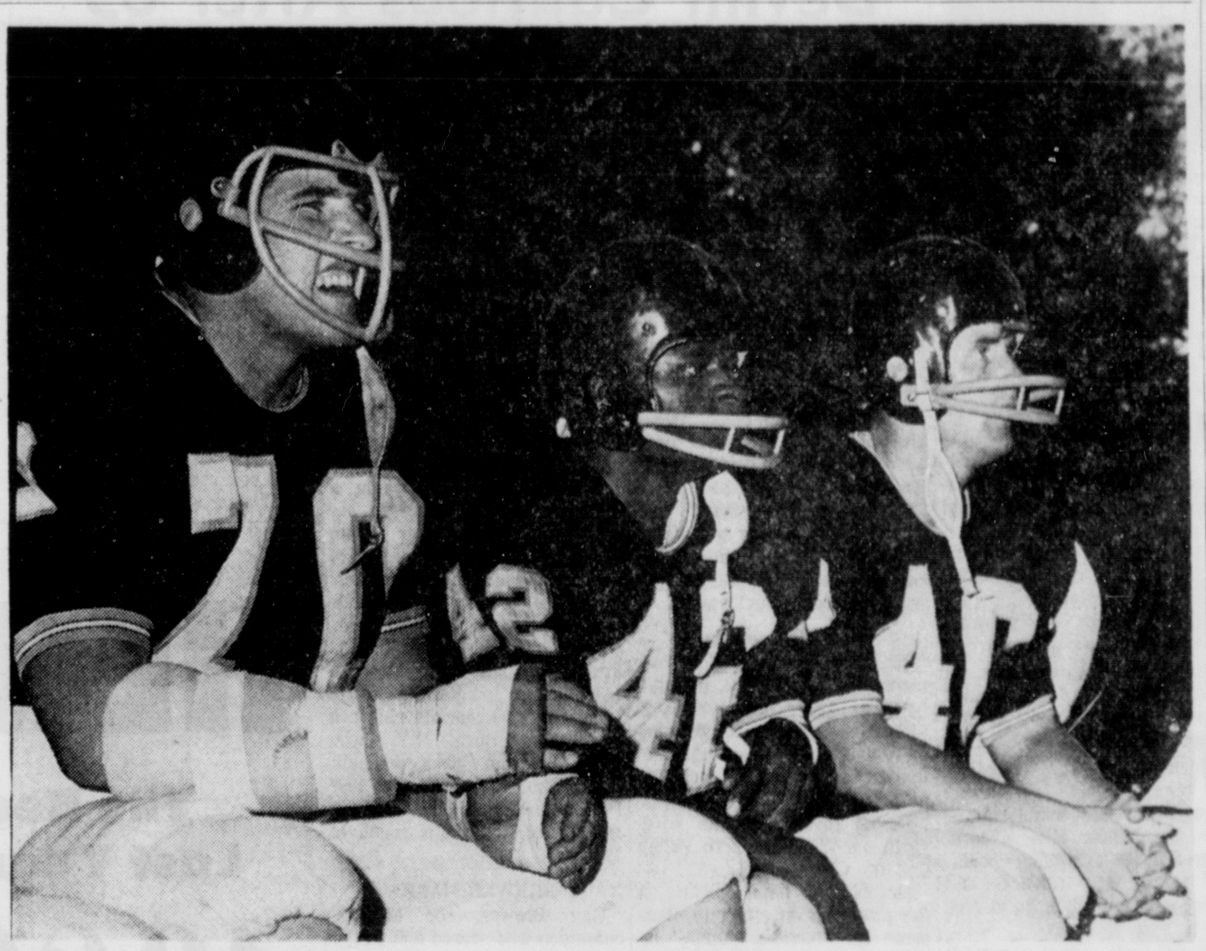
WESTERN CONFERENCE: Coastal Division — 1-San Francisco. 2-Los Angeles. 3-Baltimore. 4-Atlanta; Central Division — 1-Green Bay. 2-Detroit. 3-Chicago. 4-Minnesota.

EASTERN CONFERENCE: Century Division — 1-Cleveland. 2-St. Louis. 3-Pittsburgh. 4-New York; Capitol Division — 1-Philadelphia 2-Dallas. 3-Washington. 4-New Orleans.

Scofield, a salesman for William Timmer Realty of San Rafael when he isn't publicly addressing football crowds, groans: "No one can beat those Packers. They've got great replacements for some of the key players they've lost. Bart Starr shows no signs of getting any older and his receivers are still tops.

"THE GREATEST THING about the Packers is their defense. It's their secret to success. They pressure the other teams into mistakes and then their offense capitalizes on it."

Well, there you have it. Don't just sit there. Go on out and bet a bundle on the Swami's sure predictions.



EAGER MARINERS AWAIT OPENER

Randle Is Now A 49er

REDWOOD CITY (UPI)—Ulmo Shannon (Sonny) Randle has joined the San Francisco 49ers and may even see action at spit end or flanker in the Prospectors' opener at Minnesota Sunday.

The St. Louis Cardinals announced yesterday that they have traded Randle, an eight-year veteran and former all-pro, to San Francisco for a high draft pick.

The logic of the trade for both teams was obvious. St. Louis is loaded with good pass catchers, like Billy Gambrell, Bobby Joe Conrad and highly-touted rookie Dave Williams.

But the injury to Kay McFarland left San Francisco with only Dave Parks and Dick Witcher available. Rookie Chip Meyers, who missed much of training camp with an ankle sprain, was the only other wide receiver on the roster.

Randle had a bad season in 1966, but said he hoped to bounce back now that his fractured hand has mended. He said that 49er coach Jack Christiansen told him he will be used at flanker, although Witcher will start there Sunday.

During his brilliant eight-year career for the Cardinals, Randle set almost every all-time

Perry To Hurl For Giants Tonight Against Pirates

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — The pennant seems just about out of reach, but the San Francisco Giants still want to make sure they finish in second spot.

They lead Cincinnati by one-half game as they move into seventh-place Pittsburgh tonight for the opener of a three-game set. Ironically, it's the final meeting of the two teams picked long ago at the start of the season to fight it out for the pennant. Now the Giants and Bucs are 10 1-2 and 17 games back of St. Louis, respectively.

Gaylord Perry, top Giants pitcher of the moment despite his 13-15 mark, will go against Al McBean (6-3) of Pittsburgh.

Perry has yielded only one unearned run in his last 43 innings and his hard luck this season was symbolized recently when he worked 16 scoreless innings in Cincinnati but did not get a decision. As he left, he received a standing ovation, but his arm was so tired he tipped his hat with his left hand.

Because of the fight for second, manager Herman Franks has had a hard time giving troops just called up from the minors any playing time. But gradually he's working them in—Cesar Gutierrez at second base, Bob Barton behind the plate, Nestor Chavez on the mound and Frank Johnson as a pinchhitter.

Both teams took the night off yesterday.

Finley Takes His First Official Step To Move

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Charles O. Finley is on record with his first official move toward getting permission of other American League club owners to move his Kansas City Athletics baseball franchise to another city.

Finley notified city manager Carleton Sharpe by telegram Thursday night that "it is our present intention not to exercise our option to renew the lease on Municipal Stadium."

Both Finley and Joe Cronin, American League president, again declined comment, as they had done earlier in the week, on reports Finley already had asked Cronin to summon a meeting of club owners to consider a Finley franchise shift request.

At his Chicago insurance office, Finley crisply said: "No comment, and that's strictly off the record."

In Boston, Cronin added that: "when and if there is such a meeting, all American League teams and the press will be notified. I have no other comment to make."

The Kansas City Star said it had learned that Finley "actually did make the request." In any case, the telegram has the same effect. Seattle and Oakland have frequently been mentioned as sites.

Nine Prep Games To Open Season

This is it.

Football, Marin County style, unveils today with a spattering of four games that will test the local entries, in particular Marin County Athletic League teams.

The big debut continues tomorrow with another slate of five games.

By the time you read this, one of the smaller schools in the county will have already soiled its uniforms.

Marin Catholic, formerly of the MCAL but now playing an independent football schedule, hosted Albany at Kentfield in a 3:30 game this afternoon.

One thing is already self-evident about this year's non-conference slate. It's tough as nails.

Redwood, rebuilding from the bottom up, will entertain Washington of San Francisco, 8 o'clock at Kentfield in what is undoubtedly the toughest test an MCAL school will undergo tonight. The entertainment may not turn out to be unpleasant for Bob Troppmann's Giants, who are going with a junior quarterback, a talented backfield and a question mark line.

TO PETALUMA

Coach Bob Franceschini's Drake Pirates, co-defending champs of the MCAL along with Terra Linda, make what has usually been an unpleasant trip with a journey to Petaluma.

The Pirates, with Don Stone at quarterback, ripped the Trojans handily last year, but they have always had trouble winning in Petaluma.

The other game tonight finds little San Rafael unleashing a deep backfield and a spotty line against Canyon, which comes to town probably a little bitter about last year's 7-7 tie.

But the same goes for the Bulldogs of Bob Muster, who have Herb Rowland going for them, among other people.

Tomorrow, Novato coach Al Scott finds out just how much his Hornets can sting.

Novato is host to Salesian, the top-rated independent team in Northern California, in as tough an opener as any school could want, if they want it. That spectacular is slated for 2 p.m.

AT CONTROLS

Russ Dillon will be at the Novato quarterback controls, ready to unlimber his throwing arm, which has, up to now, been known better for firing a baseball after leading Novato-Hamilton into the Pacific Southwest Regional Babe Ruth championship last month.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

SAN FRANCISCO—Charley Austin, 158, San Diego, outpointed Rafael Gutierrez Diaz½, Mexicali, Mexico, 10.

LOS ANGELES—Raul Rojas, San Pedro, Calif., outpointed Kang Il Suh, Korea, 15. Rojas retains California version of world junior lightweight title.

Sports

FOURTH SECTION
September 15, 1967 37

Tamalpais will play at its own field for the first time tomorrow hosting perennially stubborn Riordan of the Catholic League.

Tam Coach Willie Hector has Don Mackin, Mike Fowler, big 260-pound Bruce Hildreth, stellar receiver Leroy Barrow and a flock of healthy young backs and linemen to throw at Riordan in hopes of reversing a two-touchdown loss last year. It's another 2 p.m. battle.

Riordan may well remember Mackin. He threw for four touchdowns as a sophomore in the Indians' 36-24 loss last year.

Terra Linda will be throwing another chunky, hard-charging line to complement a swift backfield against Santa Rosa at Santa Rosa tomorrow night at 8 o'clock.

In other games tomorrow, San Rafael Military Acedemy is host to Benicia at 1:30 and Tomales, with super-back Gary Dellapere around, hosts Laytonville, also at 1:30 p.m.

Turtles Team Wins Rec Game

A 21-hit slugfest ended in a 9-5 victory for Two Turtles in a Class B San Rafael Adult Recreation Softball League game at Albert Field last night.

Two Turtles won it with a three-run rally in the third inning and iced it with a two-run outburst in the fifth after losing Marinwood Athletic Club had closed the gap to 6-5.

Two Turtles collected 11 hits and Marinwood AC had 10.

White Sox Pull Out Another

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Chicago White Sox, whose ability to win with a minimum of runs is beginning to reach ridiculous proportions, have picked up a new and unexpected rooter.

For the second time in as many days, the White Sox, in fourth place in the tight American League pennant scramble, went into extra innings in a scoreless tie with Cleveland yesterday, and for the second time, they came out winners. The score was 4-0.

Today, the Sox open a three-game series with Minnesota, tied with Boston for the league lead, and the heavy-hitting Twins aren't likely to give Chicago all those extra innings to get some runs.

KALINE HOPES

Somebody who hopes the Sox score early and often is Al Kaline of the Detroit Tigers, who are in third place, a game behind Boston and Minnesota.

"This is the first time all year I'll be rooting for Stanky," said Kaline of the Chicago manager. The Tigers have no more games left with the Twins and must depend on the other clubs to help out by beating the front runners.

In the only other major league game scheduled yesterday, Atlanta beat the New York Mets 5-4 in the National League.

Chicago and Cleveland, who went 17 innings Wednesday before the White Sox won 1-0, seemed ready to do it again yesterday.

Cisco Carlos, a rookie pitcher just up from Indianapolis, was performing brilliantly on the mound, but the Chicago bats were silent, as is often the case.

5-HITTER

Carlos didn't allow a single man past second base for the Indians and surrendered only five hits. Meanwhile, three Cleveland hurlers—Steve Hargan, Stan Williams and Orlando Pena—stopped the Sox until the fateful 10th.

Singles by Ron Hansen and Duane Josephson and an intentional pass to Smoky Burgess loaded the bases with one out. Ken Boyer struck out, but then Pena delivered a grand slam home run ball to Don Buford and that ended it.

Chicago now is 2½ games behind the front-runners, a difficult but hardly impossible situation to recover from.

The Braves beat the Mets on Mike de la Hoz' two-run single in the ninth. Hank Aaron and Mack Jones homered for the Braves and Ed Kranepool hit a three-run shot for the Mets.

New Publicity Man

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Bob E. Sprenger, 27, San Francisco Examiner sports staff member, is the new publicity director of the Athletic Association of Western Universities — Pacific 8 — executive director Thomas J. Hamilton announced yesterday.

NEW 'NINER — Veteran split end Sonny Randle, who has caught 328 passes for 5,438 yards and 60 touchdowns with the St. Louis Cardinals in a career dating back to 1959, addressed newsmen yesterday after learning he had been traded to the San Francisco 49ers.

49ers Obtain Randle From St. Louis Cards

Cardinal receiving record. He played in four Pro Bowls and caught 60 touchdown passes and ganed 5,438 yards in receptions. He has averaged 16.5 yards per catch.

Because he was handicapped with the hand injury, he caught only 17 passes for 218 yards last season.

Cardinal coach Charley Winner said that Randle has looked as good as ever in the preseason and said "He's still one of the fastest men we have. He's a dedicated competitor with good hands and a great knowledge of NFL defenses."

But Winner said his team must build for the future around men like Williams and the draft choice obtained by the 49ers.

Meanwhile, coach Christiansen named only two lineup changes for his team's game with the Vikes. Ken Willard, injured in the exhibition opener, will start at fullback and George Donnelly will go at free safety.

Christiansen said that Willard might still not be in top shape and he predicted Gary Lewis would see plenty of action at the fullback slot, too.

Erikson Plans Third Try At Farallones

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ted Erikson, 39-year-old distance simmer, plans a third attempt to swim the 26 miles between the Farollon Islands and Golden Gate Bridge.

The Chicago scientist said last night that if the weather and sea are favorable, he will enter the water at 7 a.m. Sunday and hopefully reach the Golden Gate within 17 hours.

The first time he tried the swim, Erikson was pulled from the water chilled and unconscious only 1.8 miles from his goal. A second attempt ended when he became violently seasick.

Erikson holds the world's record for the two-way crossing of the English Channel. He said his upcoming swim was "far more treacherous than any single crossing of the English channel."

Lt. Col. Stewart Evans, stationed at the Presidio in San Francisco, late last month swam about 21 miles from the Farallons to Marin County, a feat never before accomplished.

Modern Day Athletes Burn Out

OAKLAND (AP) — Dr. Robert Albe, onetime University of California at Berkeley baseball and basketball star and now physician-surgeon for the California Seals of the National Hockey League, says professional athletes of today are stronger and tougher but are subject to more injuries and burn themselves out faster.

"Twenty years ago very few athletes ever missed a game with injuries," observed the man who has in years past also done medical service for San Francisco's pro baseball Giants and pro football 49ers.

"Now though, there are more missing from the lineup. They're tired or they have a sore arm.

"Many are simply burned out. The extensive travel in pro sports is not the main reason either. Part of the blame must be laid to too early a start in organized athletics. A pitcher from the Little League sometimes can hardly stand up when he reaches maturity."

Cal Bears To Host Oregon Ducks

BERKELEY (AP) — Oregon and California, two college football teams with very few seniors—and the sort of opposition just ahead to warrant finding out quickly what the sophs and juniors can do—open their season tomorrow at Berkeley at 1:30 p.m.

The two untried Pacific 8 Conference rivals—Oregon with a new coach, Jerry Frei, running the junior-dominated Ducks—must grow muscles in a hurry in this 1967 debut before an anticipated crowd of 25,000.

Next week, the Cal Bears, winners of 3 out of 10 last year when they had more veterans, go to South Bend against Notre Dame, picked by most sportswriters to be the nation's No. 1 college team. Next week at Eugene, the Ducks, with only one senior on the starting offense, take on Colorado, rated a giant this year in its Big 8.

Both teams count more on speed than weight and power.

One certain focal point of interest will be Oregon's Jim Smith, a native of Yazoo City, Miss., who is eyed by pro scouts and rated one of the best defensive backs on any college team in the nation. On pass defense last year, only 22 catches were made by receivers to which he was assigned, and the longest pass only covered 14 yards. He's also a sharp tackler.

Smith was the big reason why Oregon ranked first in pass defense in the conference last season.

Cal's quarterback, Barry Bronk, may find the air game tough and rely more heavily on the swift legs of such fellow juniors as Troy Cox and John McGaffie.

Oregon's key man is triple-threat sophomore quarterback Tom Blanchard. He can be expected to make good use of the short pass to such capable receivers as tight end Scott Cress, the lone senior on the Ducks' offensive eleven.

Cal Coach Ray Willsey expects "a conservative, low-scoring game."

Cal is a slight favorite to win.

Southern California's Trojans battle the Washington State Cougars tonight in the Pacific — 8 football kickoff with a full menu following for tomorrow.

In top intersectional battles, the Nebraska Cornhuskers invade Seattle to meet Washington's Huskies tomorrow afternoon while Tennessee throws its quick club against UCLA in a Los Angeles night engagement.

Conference tussling also involves Stanford against Oregon State at Portland in a night game.

Independent San Jose State plays at Arizona State while University of the Pacific entertains Idaho. Both San Jose and UOP bank heavily on passing quarterbacks with Danny Holman leading the former and Bob Lee the latter.

Fans tonight get an idea what Coach John McKay will do with the fastest club he's had since taking over in 1960. Halfback O. J. Simpson, flanker Jim Lawrence and split end Earl McCullough are among the fastest in football.

Washington State counters with the new Veer-T formation fer Johnny Davis counted on as the quarterback to make the machine operate.

PHILADELPHIA CLASSIC

Devlin Cautious After 65

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Bruce Devlin said he has to do it again to believe it.

The 29-year-old Australian shot a seven-under-par 35-30—65 yesterday to take a two-stroke lead into today's second round of the $110,000 Philadelphia Golf Classic.

Devlin, who spreads 158 pounds sparingly on a 6-foot-1 frame, fired nine birdies in his best round in more than a year.

"I've been playing so bad I couldn't even beat my grandmother,' said the blond Aussie after posting a two-stroke edge over Lou Graham and Bill Collins in the 72-hole test for the $22,000 first prize money.

"I've been playing so badly," added Devlin, "I might not win enough money to be exempt from qualifying next year."

TOP 60

He has played in 15 tournaments and won $10,569. It usually takes approximately $20,000 to finish among the top 60 money winners, thus insuring automatic qualification for each 1968 tournament.

Devlin toyed with the 6,708-yard, par-72 Whitemarsh Valley Country Club course.

Dropping his hands slightly on the putter in an effort to overcome his "terrible slump," he rolled in birdie putts of 20 feet on No. 2, two-putted from 45 feet on No. 5, from six feet on No. 8, 25 feet on No. 11, 14 on No. 12, five from the 13th, 25 at No. 16 and two-putted from 40 feet at No. 17, and finished with a flourish on a 35-footer on the 18th green.

He had two bogeys, both three-putt greens.

CAUTIOUS

"If I lead this tournament,' he said in his Down Under accent, "it will be the first I've led since the Carling Open in England last year.

"Let's wait and see if I can do it again before we get excited," said the cautious Devlin.

Just behind Devlin came a couple of surprise packages.

Graham, a 6-footer from Nashville, Tenn., carded five birdies and completed the rest in regulation for a 34-33—67. He has pocketed $41,842 this year, winning the Minneapolis Classic in July, but still is considered a comparative unknown.

Collins, a 39-year-old club pro from Brae Burn, N.Y., who plays in about seven or eight tournaments a year, tied a 1967 PGA record when he ran off six straight birdies in his round of 35-32—67.

BREWER MARK

Gay Brewer, the Masters champion who scored a 68 in the first round, set the mark at Pensacola in the spring.

Collins had a good shot atseven in a row, but he missed from 12 feet.

Another stroke back at 68 are, Brewer, Miller Barber, Terry Dill, George Archer, Rocky Thompson, Bob Charles and Mason Rudolph, who had a 72-foot eagle putt. Wes Ellis Jr., Billy Maxwell, Lee Trevino, Billy Casper, Bob Verwey and Joel Goldstrand are at 69.

Arnold Palmer is in a group at 70 while Gary Player, who had a triple-bogey on the par-3 fourth hole, shot an opening 73. Defending champion Don January, the 1967 PGA king, withdrew because of "complete fatigue" after shooting a 77.

Mildenberger Favored In Elimination Fight

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — Karl Mildenberger has the style and speed and is a 4-1 favorite to defeat the hard-punching Oscar Bonavena in their 12-round world heavyweight title elimination fight tomorrow night.

The fight is scheduled to start at 11:30 a.m. PDT., and will be televised live in America on ABC's Wide World of Sports.

Bonavena, from Buenos Aires, has vowed to knock out the European champion in the sixth round.

However, Bonavena will be facing a southpaw for the first time and the German plans to stay away from Bonavena's usual bruising onslaughts and deliver punishment at long range.

Wolfgang Mueller, Mildenberger's handler, put it this way:

"Bonavena's an extremely dangerous fighter, awkward and strong. There's no question he throws a harder punch than Karl and is probably the hardest puncher in this elimination tournament.

"For Karl to try and punch it out with him would be suicidal. He's got to stay at a distance and box. My feeling is that the fight will go the distance and Karl will win on points. I don't seen it ending any other way."

Mildenberger, himself, said he didn't know how the fight would go. "Ask me after the fight how it went and I'll tell you anything you want to know."

Bonavena was more outspoken. Aroused over reports by German sports writers that he wasn't training properly, Oscar predicted "I'll knock the life and the heart out of him in the first three rounds. He'll be taking punches from every direction and he won't know what's going to happen next."

QUITE A BOWLER — Rolf Singelmann of Novato, despite having only one arm, carries a 165 average going into the start of the 1967-68 bowling season. (Independent-Journal photo)

'JUST STUBBORN'

One-Armed Bowler Learned Hard Way

By RALPH CHATOIAN

"I was just stubborn," says 32-year-old Rolf Singelmann when asked why he didn't give up sports after losing his right arm.

The German-born Singelmann bowls in three leagues at Nave Lanes near Ignacio and now wants to get back to playing tennis and soccer. "I tried golf, said the slim Novatan, "but it's not for me. It's too much trouble walking around looking for the ball and hitting it every half hour. It's not enough action for me."

When three years old, Singelmann's right arm was critically injured after he was run over by a motorcycle in his native Hamburg. It was amputated 10 years later after giving him much pain and trouble during this time.

THE HARD WAY

Singlemann's parents died in 1946, forcing him to live much of his youth in an orphanage. "I had no relatives to keep care of me so I had to learn things the hard way," he said. "I was just stubborn. I had to do things myself. I didn't learn how to tie my shoelaces until I was 14. A man who had lost his left arm showed me how to do it."

Rolf and his wife, Gisela, live at 680 Orange Avenue, Novato. They were married in 1957, the year before they came to the United States. Singelmann, who was 23 then, took a job as a gardener in Inverness. "I did anything I could to earn money. I was broke when we got here," he said.

He now works as a custodian at Coleman School in San Rafael, a job he has had for almost two years.

165 AVERAGE

Singelmann learned how to bowl in 1961, and now carries a 165 average. His high game score to date is 269, bowled three years ago at Greenbrae Lanes, and his high series mark is 599.

"I haven't bowled a 600 yet," he declared, "but that's going to be the next thing I do. I also want to start a bowling team of all lefthanders."

Singelmann, who has had to work evenings lately, now will have more free time. "I hope to get back to soccer and tennis," he said. "I would also like to do some more long distance running and get into good shape. But I've been smoking too much," he grinned.

He admits to a balance problem in bowling because of his handicap, but says it doesn't seem to affect him in tennis. "I haven't played much tennis since 1962," he says with his German accent, "but I'm going to get back to it."

TIES SHOELACES

Singelmann would like to teach other handicapped persons but his attempts to get into this line have failed. "I was told I would have to go back to high school and then to college," he said. "I can't go back to school now. But why should a college education be needed to teach other handicapped people? You don't learn these things in school. A lot of people tried to tell me how to tie my shoelaces. But I didn't learn until somebody else with one arm showed me how he did it."

Rolf Singelmann isn't a quitter. You'd better believe it. And next time you think you've got troubles, put one hand behind your back and try to tie your shoelaces. Your troubles won't seem nearly so bad.

Granatelli Says He'll Race Turbine

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The U.S. Auto Club has indirectly banned the controversial turbine car in next year's Indianapolis 500-mile race, but the car's owner and builder says it will race.

Anthony Granatelli told the Los Angeles Times: "I have no intention of running any other car. I will be there with the same car . . . the same engine and the same chassis."

In the 1967 race the Granatelli jet car piloted by Parnelli Jones had bearing trouble and was forced out. But the USAC later ruled the car ineligible by placing limitations on the turbine engine.

Granatelli indicated yesterday he might file a lawsuit against the USAC if it does not lift the restrictions.

"In the past," Granatelli said "it has always been the case to give two years' notice before an engine ruling change, and then, once enforced, the rule stands for a minimum of three years."

Though the board of directors of the USAC scheduled a meeting for today, the turbine issue was reportedly not on the agenda.

Conigliaro Is Out For Year

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Red Sox now know the bad news they had feared for some time: Tony Conigliaro is out for the rest of the season with the blurred vision he has suffered since being hit by a pitched ball Aug. 18.

The slugging outfielder had another examination of his left eye yesterday and team officials announced the decision afterwards. They quoted the Retina Associates, who conducted the examination, as saying it appeared unlikely he would be able to play "efficiently within a three-week period."

The 22-year-old Conigliaro told newsmen when he arrived for the examination that: "It isn't any better. It's still the same." After the 1½ hour visit in the doctor's office he declined further comment, referring questions to team officials.

A Red Sox spokesman was asked if the report meant Tony would be sidelined for the balance of the season which ends Oct. 1.

"Yes, and probably for the World Series too," he said.

The news came as no real surprise, for Conigliaro has said all along that his vision is no better now than it was when he was released from Sancta Maria Hospital in Cambridge on Aug. 24, and Manager Dick Williams said last week he had to go on the assumption that the young slugger would not be back this year.

The girls league will operate under MCAL and California Interscholastic Federation rules and schedules.

Competition will be held in seven sports, three of which will start next week. At least four schools or more are entered in each sport.

Volleyball, tennis and swimming action begins next week for the MCAL gals. There will also be competition in badminton, basketball, gymnastics and track and field later.

Aussies Lose Doubles Match

WINNETKA, Ill. (AP) —The Australian doubles team of Tony Roche and John Newcombe, winners of every major world title, dropped a 10-8 set to Charles Pasarell of Puerto Rico and Clark Graebner of Beachwood, Ohio, in exhibition tennis last night.

The match, staged at the Winnetka Park District's Nielsen Courts for the benefit of Chicago Tennis Patrons, Inc., a fund-raising group for amateur tennis in the Chicago area, followed straight singles victories for the Australians.

Playing "pro sets"—in which the victory goes to the first winner of 10 games, provided he is two games ahead of the opposition—Roche defeated Pasarell and Newcombe downed Graebner 10-7 each.

MARIN BOWLING HIGHLIGHTS

Marin Catholic Girl Is Cal Champ

Joan Voightlander of San Anselmo, a 17-year-old girl who has been bowling at San Rafael's Country Club Bowl for the past three years, won first place in the California State Junior Bowling Tournament at Sacramento in the senior girls singles division.

The Marin Catholic High School senior rolled a three-game series of 675, handicap included, to win the top honors.

Wall Street Mixed; Prices Up Late

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market closed mixed today with prices improving in late dealings.

The market pursued an irregular course most of the day as profits were taken after two sessions of advance in heavy trading.

Although losers outnumbered gainers toward the end, blue-chip strength gave support to the averages. International Nickel, Du Pont, Owens-Illinois and Texaco made substantial gains.

In an up-and-down session, the market was mixed at the opening, registered a small gain in mid morning, was irregularly lower at noon and recovered to an irregular pattern later.

Profits were taken after two days of 12 million shares and of generally rising prices.

Tenneco, off a point, paced the list on volume, thanks mainly to a single block of 213,000 shares.

Xerox took a 9-point loss. Declines of a point or so were posted for United Airlines, Westinghouse Electric, Polaroid, International Telephone, RCA and General Dynamics.

Advances of about a point were made by Du Pont, Zenith, IBM, Universal American and Berman Leasing.

Prices were irregulrly higher on the American Stock Exchange.
